

New Floods Threaten Britain; 39 Listed as Dead or Missing

Engineers Race Time To Control Lyn River

LYNMOUTH, Eng., Aug. 18 (AP) — Army engineers blasted and bulldozed their way today through the debris of a flood believed to have drowned 39 persons in England's southwest resort coast.

Nine bodies have been recovered from among the rain-washed boulders and house wreckage along a 15-mile stretch of the Devon coast. Still missing and presumed dead were 30 more villagers and vacationers.

The Press Association had said earlier that the known dead had reached 22 with 12 others missing. Later information caused a revision of the figures.

This picturesque vacation town was almost washed into the sea by water which poured over the banks of the Lyn River at the height of the flood early Saturday morning.

More Gales, Rain Forecast

Army engineers were racing against newly threatening skies in an attempt to put the Lyn back into its course. More rains might spread the waters over a still larger area.

Threatening gales and more rain were forecast for later today.

First estimates put the property damage in the whole flooded area at more than $7,000,000.

The catastrophe's full force fell on Lynmouth, a picture postcard little holiday resort which turned into a boulder-strewn shambles when cloudbursts Friday changed the placid little Lyn into a torrent boiling through the main street. The flood damage here alone was estimated at more than $2,000,000. Twenty houses and 20 hotels disappeared. At least 40 other houses were damaged.

Police sealed off the town to prevent looting. More than 2,500 villagers and holidayers were evacuated from the ghost village to inland ballrooms and halls hastily converted into refuge centres.

Five vacationists, including three boy scouts, were listed among the dead and nine vacationists among those missing and presumed dead.

Eyewitnesses Have Grim Stories

Survivors from Lynmouth gave a graphic description of the terror that suddenly burst on them in the night.

Comedian Al Raie, appearing at the local music hall, told how the audience hurried out as the noise of the flood drowned a soprano's voice.

"I saw a chain of women walking hand in hand towards their hotel," Raie said. "Then the sidewalk disappeared, and the girl on the end of the chain was swept out to sea."

At one hotel, Phyllis Biggs, the manager, shepherded the scared guests through an upstairs window onto the roof. There, while the Lyn roared past beneath them and the hotel shuddered from boulders crashing against its walls, they huddled together and sang the hymn, "Oh God, Our Help in Ages Past."

Mrs. Ellen Jenkins, 36, was clambering inland when she saw a man, almost submerged by the flood, floating towards her.

"I recognized him as my father and grabbed him by the shirt and managed to get him to dry land," she said.

Tom Floyd, 63, lost his wife, their son and daughter, the daughter's husband, and the young couple's two sons when their cottage was swept away.

CALL UP THE BABY-SITTERS

Content Dogs Assured By Top-Rate Services

By RON BAIRD

Baby-sitting here has gone to the dogs.

And the dogs seem to like it as much as the babies.

A business of "rugged" competition, even pooches are getting preferential treatment nowadays. Victoria's baby-sitting services, which started with a crawl by amateurs, now walk upright with the support of professional sitters who have to get an okay from a minister and the chief of police before they can-tuck Fido junior into bed.

Says Mrs. Hazel B. Wisdom, manager of one of Victoria's three professional baby-sitting groups:

"We must be equal to any emergency."

Like the emergency that arose with one city family whose dog was killed in an accident, leaving a litter of newborn puppies to the tender but untrained mercies of their owners.

A call went through to a baby-sitting club—and a sitter was sent out to administer a bottle at the prescribed hour when the owners of the puppies went out.

Even elderly canines can get someone to sit with them if their owners go out and the old fellows get to feeling lonely.

The Victoria baby-sitting groups faced an invasion from Vancouver a short time ago by a mainland company which planned to establish a Victoria branch. But that's all been settled now, says Mrs. Wisdom, and the competition will remain local.

And as for old Rover, his canine worries are ended.

He won't have to spend another dull evening at home looking at the TV set.

Just call up a baby-sitting service.

They'll send someone up to play gin rummy with him.

Egypt Drops Censorship

CAIRO, Egypt, Aug. 18 (Reuters) — Censorship of outgoing press dispatches was lifted again today, soon after it had been reimposed because the army complained "inaccurate reports" were being sent from the country. (See story on Egypt, Page 2.)

Censorship on outgoing and incoming dispatches was abolished last Monday for the first time in four years. It was reimposed four days later on outgoing cables.

Forest Fire Situation Improves

British Columbia's forest fire situation is "easing up a little" due to scattered showers throughout the province, the B.C. Forest Service reported today.

The weather forecast is for very light rain along the coastal region.

There are 137 fires in the province being fought by 1,253 men. Twenty-one new blazes broke out over the week-end.

The province's biggest blaze at Burn's Lake is still out of control and has now destroyed 40,000 to 60,000 acres of forest lands.

It is 15 miles in length and about five miles wide. Five bulldozers and 100 men are combating it. They have been successful in holding the west and south flank of the blaze.

The 1,500-acre fire at Mosher, near Bella Coola, hasn't been controlled yet.

The Vernon Lake fire was described as "quiet."

ASK The TIMES

Q—A printer friend puzzled me by using the word "amperand" the other day. I didn't want to show my ignorance, but what is it?—Mr. J.P.B.

A—An amperand is the character &, used for "and." It is an ancient corruption of the phrase "and per se and."

Q—What explorer was the first white man to reach Canada's Pacific coast by land?—Mrs. T.J.

A—Sir Alexander Mackenzie in 1783.

Q—In what year was the Queen born? Prince Charles? Princess Anne?—Mr. B.W.

A—Queen Elizabeth, 1926; Prince Charles, 1948; Princess Anne, 1950.

Banks Start Discounting U.S. Silver

7% Average Charge On Larger Coins Will Be Made

By BURKE CAHILL
Times Business Editor

Victoria banks have started discounting United States larger silver coins... and the discount will average about 7 per cent on the dollar.

The flow of American coins here has become so large, bank managers report, that they have been forced to mark down the larger United States silver according to the cost of shipping it south of the line.

"We had been merely taking in the U.S. coins and passing them out again," one bank manager said today, "but now many of our customers are complaining that they are getting too much American silver in rolls of change from the bank."

SHIPPED TO SEATTLE

Since bank customers are balking at the U.S. coins, local bankers explain, the banks have to ship the silver to Seattle.

The cost of packaging and shipping silver is much more than for cheques or bills, the bank managers point out, and so the discount on silver will have to be larger.

Local banks are currently marking down United States paper money according to daily quotations in the foreign exchange market reported by the Bank of Canada. In the case of silver, however, the local banks say they have to work out their own discount.

So far, smaller United States coins such as dimes and nickels are still being accepted by bank customers, the managers said. Consequently, not all the American silver has to be shipped out.

WEATHERMAN HOLDS LITTLE HOPE OF RAIN

Despite threatening clouds over the city today, and expected again Tuesday, there is little hope of rain, Victoria weather office reported.

"We expect a little clearing tonight and Tuesday afternoon," weather officials said. "Although there is a little disturbance around and the weather is getting worse, it still isn't strong enough to produce actual rain."

Temperatures will continue in the mid 52 to 65-degree range, and winds will reach 20 miles per hour in the afternoons.

Planes Attack Bandit Lair

(MANILA, Aug. 18 (Sunday) (AP). — Philippines air force planes bombed and rocketed Moro bandit strongholds on Jolo Island today while warships offshore lobbed big shells into the brigands' defenses.

Tank-led infantrymen steadily closed in on the remnants of Hadji Kamlon's once-powerful band.

The drive against Jolo's bandits was entering its second week.

Deal Offered By Mediators

NEW YORK, Aug. 18 (AP) — Government mediators said tonight they have made a "package proposal" aimed at settling a strike-threatening dispute between the New York Central Railroad and four unions. The mediators said the proposal covers everything in an involved two-year dispute over working rules.

ALLIES PLAN TO SPLIT HUGE KRUPP PLANT

BONN, Germany, Aug. 18 (Reuters) — Alfred Krupp, 44, heir to the German munitions empire and former war criminal, will again take his place among the world's richest men if an Allied plan goes through, a United States high commission source said today.

Under the plan, to be considered by the West German government, Krupp will get about 360,000,000 marks ($90,000,000), compensation for Krupp steel and coal assets, which the Allies are taking out of his control.

Other properties, estimated to be worth 300,000,000 marks will be returned to his control as soon as the heavy industrial concern is decontrolled. This property includes shipping interests, real estate and a chain of hotels.

Alfred Krupp Von Vohlen and Halbach was released from Landsberg prison last spring after serving part of 12-year sentence for employing wartime slave labor.

His release was ordered by John J. McCloy, then U.S. high commissioner, who also canceled the order of the Nuernberg war crimes tribunal confiscating Krupp's property.

The West German government is expected to approve the Allied plan.

NO PROGRESS MADE IN STRIKE PARLEY

Carpenters, Contractors Fail to Reach Agreement; Second Meeting Likely

Negotiators for Victoria carpenters and contractors involved in the nine-week-old strike met this morning for the first time since late March and made no progress.

After a one and one-half hour session in the office of the Labor Relations Board the parties termed the negotiation "friendly" and it was felt another meeting would be called before the end of the week. Wages are in dispute.

Today's parley was arranged by the Labor Board, whose members felt it was time the two quarrelling factions met around a table to talk settlement.

The last time the two parties were together was in March when they went before a conciliation board to present their arguments.

At today's session, which began at 10, there were 11 representatives of the Victoria Building Industries' Exchange in attendance and five representatives of the Victoria local of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners.

Labor Relations Board chairman D'Arcy Baldwin and the two Victoria board members sat in on the session.

The union's attitude is that it cannot come lower than the $2.10 rate which is now in effect Up Island and which has been offered striking Vancouver carpenters. The exchange's view is that business here is falling off and the most contractors could pay for carpenters' services is $1.90 an hour.

The rate of pay when the strike began was $1.75.

VANCOUVER MEETING

In Vancouver, meetings have been scheduled for carpenters and painters tonight to decide whether they will call an end to their long construction tie-up.

Proposals for settlement go before separate meetings of carpenters, on strike in Vancouver area for 69 days, and painters, who walked off the job 66 days ago.

Victoria painters, who are also on strike, are watching closely the carpenter negotiations here. They are making no new move on their own.

MISSING MAINLAND MAN REGAINS MEMORY HERE

A 28-year-old amnesia victim, who had been missing from his North Vancouver home since last Wednesday, found himself Sunday on the beach in front of Royal Roads College.

R.C.M.P. said the missing man, Arthur Sewell, got in touch with police Sunday night and is now waiting for his mother to come here and take him home.

He suffered a minor head injury when he slipped in a bathtub at his home.

Police said today he could recall nothing of his trip over here but remembered all events after Sunday morning. They said he did not seem to be suffering any physical injuries.

His identity was established after R.C.M.P. requested radio stations to broadcast his identity.

Just can't seem 'figger out why sewage from a pensioner's cabin in Lime Bay is worse than sewage from a millionaire's yacht at 'Chauseway dock.

M' cousin Zach's youngster just grinned when he heard th' labor congress platform from Winnipeg. Free education and compulsory school attendance, it sed. Like at Oak Bay Junior High?

Burrard Vote Recount Adjourned

Judge Indicates Bound by Appeal Court Decision

VANCOUVER, Aug. 18 (CP) — The Vancouver-Burrard recount was adjourned by Judge McGeer until Wednesday morning in County Court today.

The adjournment was to enable C.C.F. counsel to consider their position after the judge indicated that he was bound by the recent court of appeal judgment in the Vancouver-Point Grey elections case.

The judge also expressed the opinion that the Elections Act had not been complied with for Vancouver-Burrard.

Robert M. McGinn, returning officer, was recalled just before adjournment and admitted that he had rejected some ballots on the final count but had not endorsed the ballots as required by the Elections Act.

The judge stated that section 119, subsection 7 of the Elections Act had not apparently been complied with.

He pointed out that the Court of Appeal in the Vancouver-Point Grey election appeal, refused to count the ballots after finding that the act had not been carried with respect to receiving, packaging and endorsing the ballots by the returning officer.

MAKES NO SENSE

"I can see as, the Court of Appeal saw, the extreme difficulty of compliance with the act," said Judge McGeer. "The act does not make very much sense to me; but I can not make sense out of something that does not make sense."

Mr. McGinn told the court there were 256 polls in his riding and that the count which he conducted was limited to ballots other than the first preference and rejected ballots.

These ballots were kept in their original packages. But the ballots which Mr. McGinn counted were not returned to their original envelopes.

His Honor called attention to section 128 of the act, which required the returning officer on completion of the final count to seal up the ballots which he counted and those which he had rejected.

"Are the ballots in the original envelopes which you received from the deputy returning officer," asked His Honor.

Mr. McGinn: "No."

Chou En Lai, Army Advisers In Moscow

MOSCOW, Aug. 18 (AP) — A top-level 15-man Chinese government delegation headed by Premier Chou En-Lai arrived in Moscow tonight for important talks with Soviet leaders in the Kremlin.

The Chinese party, which came by air from Peking, included military, diplomatic and economic leaders.

Chou and his party were met at the airport by a group of Russian leaders headed by politburo members A. I. Kikoyan and N. A. Bulganin. They were given a full-scale formal reception which highlighted the importance attached to their visit.

In a brief statement at the airport, Chou said he had come here for the purpose of "strengthening the friendly co-operation" between China and the Soviet Union. It seemed obvious that closer Chinese-Soviet military ties are on the conference agenda along with economic and political topics.

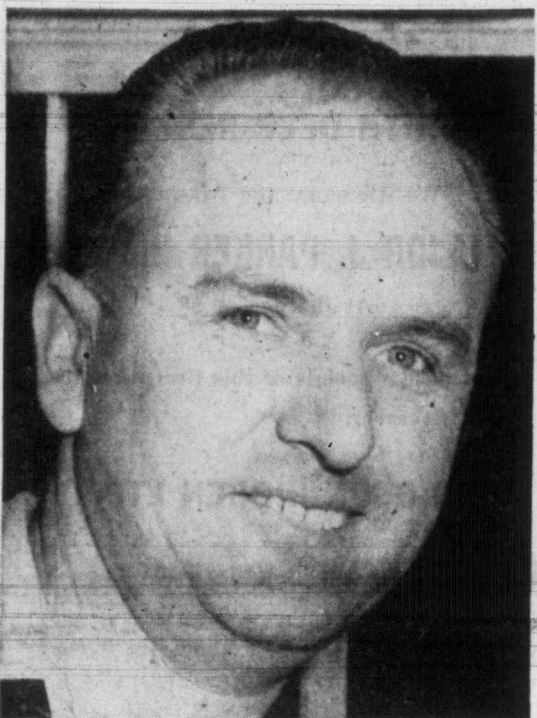

The fact that military questions will be important in the conferences was self-evident from the composition of the Chinese delegation. It included Peking's deputy chief of staff, the commander of the Chinese air force, the deputy commander of the navy and the deputy commander of artillery.

Bus Driver in Rescue Role for Second Time

Hero of Goodacre Lake Tragedy Saves Boy at Elk Lake Saturday Afternoon

For the second time in less than two years 40-year-old William Spedding, 2626 Avebury Avenue, has saved Victoria youths from drowning in Victoria and district lakes.

Mr. Spedding, a B.C. Electric Co. bus driver, on Saturday afternoon saved the life of 13-year-old Douglas DeWolfe, 1018 Balmoral, after the lad had gone down for the third time in Elk Lake waters.

On Jan. 28, 1951, the bus driver—who was not identified at the time by police—took part in the rescue of several ice-skating boys who plunged through the ice of Goodacre Lake, Beacon Hill Park.

Charles O'Sullivan, 16, was drowned. "I'm sure that if Mr. Spedding had not dived for my boy when he did that he would have drowned," said the boy's mother, Mrs. Selina DeWolfe, to the Victoria Times today.

FEELS SWELL

"I feel swell now—but I know I had a close shave with death," said young Douglas to the Times this morning while being pictured in his bed at Royal Jubilee Hospital. He was released to return home this afternoon.

Douglas was out about 50 feet from shore playing with inflated inner tubes near the East Saanich Road picnic grounds, with his brothers, Lloyd and Carl, when the trouble occurred. There were also several other boys around at the time.

"Somebody pushed me away from the inner tube and that's all I remember for a long while," said the DeWolfe boy.

"We heard a lot of yells going on in that vicinity so Bill (Mr. Spedding) swam over and somebody told him that Douglas had gone down for the third time," said Mrs. Anne Spedding. She said Bill looked under water, saw the boy lying on the bottom and immediately dived and brought him up.

Artificial respiration was used to bring the near-drowned boy around. In the meantime someone telephoned the Saanich Fire Department and resuscitator crew arrived in charge of Lieut. Hector McNeill and worked on the lad until he had revived sufficiently to be rushed to Jubilee Hospital.

"Everyone around the scene sure helped a lot to get the police and firemen here and to help in many other ways," said bus driver Spedding.

Spedding children, David, 14, and Loraine, were also present at the scene. "We are so grateful to Mr. Spedding. I hope he will get some recognition for his brave act. But we also will ask him to come to our home to receive a special gift for his courageous and keen presence of mind," said the grateful Mrs. DeWolfe. Mr. DeWolfe is an employee of H.M.C. Dockyard.

Three More Polio Cases

Three of four new polio cases reported in B.C. over the week-end were in the Kimberley-Cranbrook area, hardest hit section of the province.

There have been 107 cases and 10 deaths reported to date, 25 of the cases and seven of the deaths in or near Kimberley.

CANADA THEIR AIM

Yugoslav Oarsmen
Refuse to Go Home

RUSSELSHEIM, Germany, Aug. 18 (AP)—Eight husky young men from Yugoslavia's Olympic rowing team said here today that they are not going to return to their Communist homeland even if Premier Marshall Tito does say his brand of Communism isn't like Stalin's.

EVERYWHERE

The team's manager, Slavko Jankovic, said he and seven others are asking asylum of the west and "we want to go to Canada." (In Ottawa immigration officials stated that if the Yugoslav oarsmen want to immigrate to Canada they must go through the usual procedure. They must satisfy Canadian authorities that they are a good security risk and have sufficient means to maintain themselves here.)

Seeking refuge with him are six members of the Yugoslav eight-oar crew, and the stroke oar from the two-man squad with Coxswain which competed at Helsinki.

"We hear that there are also four other Yugoslav rowers now in Bochum, Germany, who are not going back, but we are not sure about that," Jankovic said.

The other seven with Jankovic did not want to give their names because all had relatives and one had a wife in Yugoslavia.

The rowers stopped here on their way from Helsinki to compete in a regatta on the Main River. Jankovic said "they wanted to quit Yugoslavia for political reasons and also because life there is difficult and expensive."

"Canada is a land where one can work and live in freedom and earn enough to live as an honorable man," he added.

In Canada the rowers hope to join four other Yugoslav oarsmen who fled to the west from an international regatta in Milan, Italy, two years ago.

Jankovic is an economist. The others are an electrical engineer, a teacher, a mechanic and four students.

They want to remain in Europe only long enough to earn money and get permission to emigrate to Canada.

Deputy Minister Retains Place on Research Council

John F. Walker, provincial deputy minister of mines, has been re-appointed as a member of the board of management of the B.C. Research Council for a three-year term.

Deputy Labor Minister William Sands has been appointed chairman of the Board of Industrial Relations.

Both appointments have been approved by order-in-council.

Annual cut of timber in Maine is approximately 690,000,000 feet.

Socialite Denies White Slavery

Minot F. (Mickey) Jelke, right, 22-year-old socialite playboy arrested in New York in connection with an expensive call-girl racket, appears worried as he is booked along with publicity man Ray Russell on white slavery charges. Jelke, heir to an oleomargarine fortune, was also charged with Sullivan Law violation for possessing the two guns shown on the desk. Jelke denied the charges. NEA Telephoto.)

'TO ENTERTAIN FRIENDS'

Wealthy New York Manufacturer
Faces Grand Jury for Procuring

NEW YORK, Aug. 18 (AP)—Robert R. Reynolds said Chapman procured blonde Nancy Hawkins, 23, for prostitution purposes and sent her to a Ritz Tower Hotel suite on June 14 "to entertain three business men and in return receive the sum of $500." The Hawkins woman is one of the three held as material witnesses in the Jelke case.

Prosecutors said Chapman did not intend to sell the pornographic art allegedly found in his favorite haunt of artists and writers. They said the collection solely was for the amusement of his friends and himself.

Chapman told reporters after his arraignment that the charges were "ridiculous and entirely untrue."

Mme. Chiang
Under Care of
U.S. Doctors

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 18 (AP)—A dermatologist said today it is "just a question of time" before Mme. Chiang Kai-Shek's skin ailment responds to treatment.

Dr. Edwin L. Bruck of the University of California Medical Centre examined the 54-year-old first lady of Nationalist China Sunday. He said the inflammation "may respond in four or five days or may take two or three weeks."

Madame Chiang arrived late Saturday on a plane from Hawaii. The ailment is believed caused by nerves.

DEATH FOR WORKERS' LEADER

Former Head of Farouk's Cabinet
Linked With Egyptian Mill Riot

CAIRO, Aug. 18 (CP)—Evidence linking the former chief of King Farouk's cabinet with last week's riots at Kafr El Dawar was reported today to be in the hands of Egypt's public prosecutor.

The investigation into the riots, in which nine persons were killed, took a new turn when Hafez Afifi was asked why he made a "secret visit" to the town the day before the riot.

Afifi resigned his royal post the day before Farouk abdicated. He was formerly managing director of the giant Misr banking group which controls the Misr cotton mill, scene of the Kafr El Dawar riots. His son is a top official of the mill.

Naaman El Ashmawy, chief of police at the mill, was arrested Sunday for failing to cope properly with the riot.

The mill suffered extensive damage and nine were killed when thousands of mill workers clashed with police and troops.

The government has claimed the riot was instigated by "political parties."

While the riot investigations continued, Egypt's first balanced budget since the Second World War was introduced.

Finance Minister Abdel Gueili El Emari said Sunday night the cabinet had approved expenditures for the 1952-53 fiscal year of £206,000,000 (about $590,000,000). Eighteen per cent—£37,600,000—will go for defense.

The finance minister indicated that slashed allowances for the royal palace administration accounted for much of the budget savings.

ARF EL DAWWAR, Egypt, Aug. 18 (Reuters)—A military court today sentenced Mustafa Khamis, described as ringleader of the cotton mill riots here last week, to death by hanging.

It was the first sentence passed by the court following the riots which wrecked the Misr cotton spinning and weaving mills.

Khamis was the self-styled leader of the workers of Kafr El Dawar.

VICTORIA DAILY TIMES

ON THE TIMES

By ART STOTT

After two weeks rustic vacation, a man comes back to sit before a typewriter and marvels mildly at the ingenuity of its invention. You hit a key and a lever clicks up to clack a letter onto the paper. Hit enough keys and, if you're lucky, a word is spelled out. Knock out enough words and a sentence emerges—or it should. Combine enough sentences and a thought is recorded—and I wish it were.

This is civilization. You flick a switch and the light goes on. You swing a lever and gallons of water gush down into the porcelain. Turn a knob and you get a singing commercial. The lake was never like this. For which I'm thankful.

You come back from a rustic vacation and you find the hands that hammer out a column, with or without assistance from a brain, have grown a little calloused, a little stiff. It's a bit harder to hit the right keys, to string together the right words, to build the right sentences. And there are callouses and a certain stiffness to the muscles that should turn out thought.

A man comes back in the body, but he's a spiritless thing, an undisciplined physical being, who resents his collar as he would a yoke, who objects to the necessity of throwing his shoulders into his job. He fingers the keys of his typewriter but the real man isn't there. He's off dreaming.

Just Staring

He's dreaming of a morning when the mist rose from the heel of the bay as sunlight climbed over the hill to warm its western shore. He's gazing from a flimsy springboard into the water so transparent he can watch the crawfish crawling warily on the bottom, fearsome to see and more timid than the deer that picked its quiet way to the shore to drink in the night.

He's dreaming of the soft caress of warm water as he takes his pre-breakfast plunge, before the day's breeze springs up and while only thin veils of woodsmoke rise from cottages across the bay.

He's idling again on the small beach in mid-morning, when the sun has grown hot, and watching a youngster learning the intricacies of a small sailboat heading for the island. He's waiting for the troupe of late sleepers to wander down from the shack, their dishes done and ready to swim.

He's drowsing through the hot afternoon, stirring only from his deck chair to plunge into the water, scarce heeding the shrill voices of small children at play around the shoreline.

He's out trolling in the evening, with no hopes of fish, just to enjoy the lake's glassy mirroring of the green trees and hills, the images washed clean in reflection. He's seeing again the changing colors of Sooke hills to the south, where evening blue is settling over the new growth covering the scars of logging and fire in earlier years.

But It Can't Be Real

He's watching the sunset over Eagle Heights, softened by distance and dusk, and admitting the colors of cloud forms that appear on calendars and are dismissed as unreal.

Or he's sitting again by the lake caught in the spell of the bats' flight patterns as they seek their evening meals. And he's waiting for a big, orange wheel of a moon to roll up the side of the hill they call Old Stick, to hover at its peak, etching the silhouettes of two tall birds that stand sentinel.

He's sitting before a typewriter in a downtown office, but he's a long way from the urban civilization closing in on him this first day back at work.

Just give him time. He'll be treading the sidewalks soon, his feet will begin to hurt and he'll know he's back in civilization. But for a while, it was nice dreaming.

Canada's Thunderbirds Make Airlift History

North Stars Fly 4,300,000 Miles for U.N. Across Pacific in First 2 Years' Service

DORVAL, Que. (CP)—The R.C.A.F.'s No. 426 Thunderbird Transport Squadron flew 4,300,000 miles for Canada and the United Nations in its first two years of the airlift to Korea, and it's still going strong.

But things have changed since the early days, when the squadron was on a one-flight-a-day schedule. Now it flies the Pacific about twice a week and does other jobs besides from its headquarters here near Montreal.

It was in the early evening of July 2, 1950, that the first of the squadron's Canadian-built four-engine North Stars took off from McChord Field near Tacoma, Wash., bound for Tokyo.

Widespread Hunt for Ont. Killers

MAXVILLE, Ont., Aug. 18 (CP)—Leonard Hurd, prominent 41-year-old business man, was found shot to death late Saturday night and police say they think he was robbed of hundreds of dollars and murdered. A widespread manhunt is on now.

At least four .22 calibre bullets were found in the body of the operator of a garage, taxi, bus and trucking service, two in his head and two in the upper part of his body. Police said there also were signs he had been slugged.

The body was found in a seven-passenger sedan, one of Hurd's own taxis, about half an hour after he left a Maxville restaurant ostensibly to go home.

Police say they think he was robbed of between $800 and $1,700.

He is survived by his widow and two daughters. A son, Harris, was killed just four months ago in a motorcycle accident near where the father's body was found Saturday night.

400 Winnipeg Electricians On Strike

Claim Employers Refuse Approved Wage Increases

WINNIPEG, Aug. 18 (CP)—Majority of the 400 members of Local 435, International Brotherhood of Electric Workers (A.F.L.), walked off the job this morning in many construction works, including some defense projects.

J. A. Shirkie, business manager of the union, today said about 250 electricians went on strike in the city area and others in outside points.

Electricians employed at Churchill and at Shilo defense projects reportedly were coming to Winnipeg to join the strike.

Picket lines were placed at several construction jobs early this morning.

Union officials said employers affected by the strike at Stevenson Airfield, where defense work was being done, included Schumacher-McKenzie, McCaine Electric and Stewart Electric.

UNANIMOUS REPORT

Other jobs picketed were the Bank of Canada and Bank of Toronto on Portage Avenue, C.P.R. station, Canada Packers, St. Boniface, and Trans-Canada Airways.

Union officials said the men went on strike because certain electric contractors, members of the Winnipeg Builders' Exchange, refused to grant pay increases as unanimously recommended by the conciliation board appointed by the Provincial Department of Labor.

The board, which heard the wage dispute, recommended an increase of 25 cents an hour, 15 cents retroactive to May 1, five cents from Aug. 1 and five cents from Nov. 1.

The union members accepted the board's recommendation but the employers did not.

Nine Goodrich Rubber Plants Hit By Strike

AKRON, O., Aug. 18 (AP)—The United Rubber Workers (C.I.O.) today went on strike against the B. F. Goodrich Company, but continued contract negotiations with the firm.

The walkout—ordered by the union Sunday night—was first felt in Akron where 13,000 of the 30,000 involved are employed.

Affected by the strike order were nine of the company's 30 plants—those engaged in processing rubber. Goodrich also has chemical and aircraft plants covered by other unions.

Negotiations are scheduled to resume later today. They have been going on for 10 weeks.

10-CENT RAISE OFFERED

Goodrich has offered 10-cent hourly pay increases, the same as granted earlier by Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co., U.S. Rubber Co., General Tire and Rubber Co. and Sieberling Rubber Co.

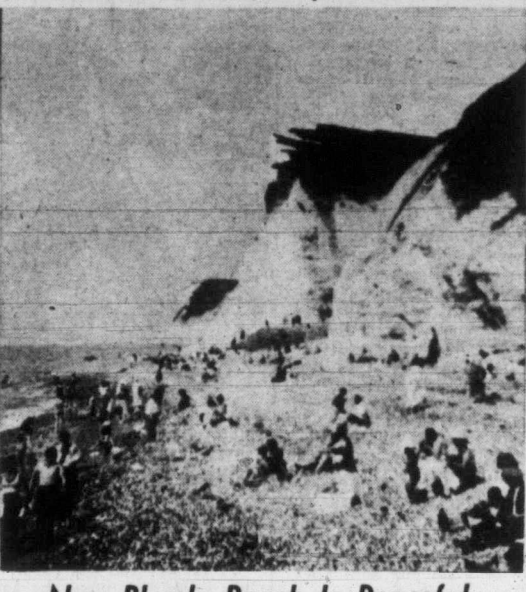

The union says the average Goodrich pay now is about $1.80 an hour.

In dispute are fringe issues in the Goodrich pact. After failing to reach agreement on those, the union called out its members. Strike action was authorized by production workers July 15 when the old contract expired, but the actual call was left to the negotiating committee and the union's executive board.

The union said the fringe issues involve holiday pay, grievance procedure, reporting for work, vacations and other matters. A union publication here claimed the company had offered the 10-cent increase only if it agreed to the impossible contract.

There Was Fear and Fury Then . . . as Canadians Hit Dieppe

Now Bloody Beach Is Peaceful

IN GREEK PARLIAMENT

'Dishonest' Elections Charge Brings Uproar

ATHENS, Aug. 18 (AP)—Greece's parliament broke up in a row today when the opposition leader, Field Marshal Alexander Papagos, charged that last September's elections were "dishonest and corrupt."

After a recess quieted things down, Papagos explained that he had not meant to blame the present coalition regime of all-in Premier Nicholas Plastiras and his deputy, Sophocles Venizelos. He said he referred to the previous Venizelos regime which staged the election.

The extraordinary session was called to debate Greece's worsening economic situation. A vote of confidence is expected Wednesday. If the government loses the vote, it will automatically be forced to resign.

Papagos' right-wing party holds 115 of the single-house parliament's 258 seats, the largest single bloc. The coalition of Plastiras' left-of-center Progressive Party and Venizelos' middle-of-the-road Liberals holds only half the seats—129—and depends on independent votes, including those of the extreme left wing, to push through its program.

Papagos predicts new elections would sweep him to power.

Ceremonies Mark Day Of Heroism

BY JOHN SHAW

Canadians go back to Dieppe Aug. 19.

They will mark the anniversary of one of the most daring, bloody and at the same time magnificent episodes of the Second World War, 10 years ago. It was called then and remembered now as "a Canadian show." It was conceived as a test of German strength on the continent of Europe, and at the same time of the striking force of the British assault force building for the ultimate invasion.

From Montreal, 36 Canadian officers and men representing the units which fought the Dieppe action, all of them survivors of Dieppe, flew to France for the ceremonies.

The group represents such famous units as Calgary Highlanders and the King's Own Calgary Regiment, Queen's Own Cameron Highlanders, the South Saskatchewan, Royal Hamilton Light Infantry, Fusiliers Mont-Royal, Canada's Black Watch, Essex Scottish, Royal Regiment of Canada, Toronto Scottish, Royal Canadian Artillery, Royal Canadian Corps of Signals. There were other giant regiments in the attack.

William J. McMullan, of Shawinigan Lake, was one of those killed. He died before his assault craft touched the beach. Henry Rowe, one-time basketball star, of Victoria, was badly wounded. He won the Military Medal there. Mark R. Rushton, another Victorian at the time of enlistment, was wounded, too.

So were Henry Slater, of Saanich; Ernie Underwood, also of Saanich; Frank Goldie, Victoria, all taken prisoner. Of the nearly 5,000 Canadians who stormed Dieppe, 710 died. There were 2,066 taken prisoner, most of them wounded.

ROYAL CITY FIRE CAUSES $10,000 DAMAGE TO BLOCK

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. Aug. 18 (BUP)—Fire of unknown origin caused at least $10,000 damage early today when it swept through part of the Gifford Block, at 513 Columbia in downtown New Westminster.

A policeman credited prompt action by Royal City firemen, who reached the scene two minutes after the one alarm at 2:15 a.m. with saving the rest of the block and the adjacent police station.

A cafe and chiropractor's office on the upper floor were gutted, while heavy water damage was done to leather goods, children's clothing and jewelry stores and an optometrist's office on the ground floor.

The flames were controlled in 10 minutes and no one was hurt.

Mr. Bennett's Economies

THE ONLY BASIC AND CLEAR policy advocated by the Social Credit Party in the June election was strict economy—a sound policy, long overdue. It is satisfactory to hear from Premier Bennett that he proposes to implement economy without delay. Every tax-paying British Columbian will wish him success.

Mr. Bennett suspects that the apparatus of government is overloaded. Who can doubt it? In recent times British Columbia not only has been expanding its public services faster than any other province and raising its budget and taxes to the highest level, on a per capita basis, ever known in Canada; it has been hiring more and more people to manage this proliferating structure. Mr. Bennett evidently thinks that fewer people can do more work, if they are properly organized. If the government departments are overhauled and systemized, we think he is quite right.

Few people, probably not even Mr. Bennett, know what Social Credit means, if it means anything. Everybody understands taxes and taxes are merely the reflection of government expenditures, now far too high and getting higher. If Social Credit in action, as distinguished from Social Credit in the text books of Major Douglas and the dream of William Aberhart, means economy, that phase of government policy will meet with a wide support throughout British Columbia, regardless of party lines.

No government for many years has shown any real interest in economy. In lush times, with easy and rising revenues, government has been unable to avoid the temptation of spending all the money it could collect and piling on new taxes to keep abreast of still higher spending. Mr. Bennett apparently intends to grasp this old nettle. The future of his government will depend very largely on his progress in this single and paramount issue.

He does not have to worry about Social Credit, which was hardly mentioned in his campaign, and as he candidly admits, can never be attempted except by the Parliament of Canada; if any Parliament were foolish enough to entertain it. But economy is within the jurisdiction of provincial authority and raises no ideological issues between the political parties.

At this time it is particularly needed. Since the war the provincial government's revenues from existing taxes have constantly increased, the sure fruit of a great boom. We have no assurance, however, that this trend will continue. Even a slight drop in business activity, a mild recession in our great basic industries like lumber, could instantly reduce the government's income. Mr. Bennett cannot count on a perpetual boom of the present proportions. He is wisely preparing for a change in the climate.

His task is more difficult than it may appear on the surface.

The former governments not only have spent all the money they could raise but have committed themselves to larger expenditures in the future as their services automatically grow more expensive. Without strong measures the next provincial budget will be higher than ever. Mr. Bennett's first effort, no doubt, will be to hold the budget at least to its present level. If he can go further and actually reduce it he will show himself an able administrator and undoubtedly strengthen the position of his precarious administration.

In this matter the taxpayer is not particularly concerned with party politics. He is concerned with his purse, now flattened by the huge levies of federal and provincial governments and by high prices. He will regard real economy in provincial affairs as the sovereign test of the Social Credit administration. It is to be hoped that Mr. Bennett can meet this test.

The Test of Churchill

THE CHURCHILL GOVERNMENT OF Britain is now entering its supreme test. It is attempting to hold down wage rates which threaten to destroy the British economy. The struggle now beginning could end by destroying the government.

The labor unions of Britain, able, educated and patriotic, loyally co-operated with the Labor government in holding down wage rates lest they push up prices and undermine British exports to the world. Despite everything the Labor government was able to do by wage restraint its fiscal policies of inflation and the inflation generated in other countries pushed up British prices. Now the unions demand wage increases to compensate themselves for a higher cost of living. If those increases are generally granted prices must rise again and British goods will be unable to compete in a softening world market.

That is the core of the immediate problem which the Churchill government apparently is determined to solve or perish in the attempt. Even where employers and employees in some industries have agreed to higher wage rates the government has recently refused to approve them. Whether the unions will accept this policy, whether the nation will support it, the next few months should show.

Some sections of the Labor party seem to think that prices within Britain have risen by accident or by the bungling of the government. In fact, they have risen in part by the uncontrollable pressures of the world economy and in part by deliberate government policy.

The Labor government tried to hold down prices by decree and exhortation and inevitably failed when its own fiscal policy was inflationary, when it was spending more than the nation could afford on non-essentials and thus reducing the energies going into essential exports.

The Churchill government knows that the root cause of inflation today as always is an excessive demand for goods and it has deliberately allowed domestic prices to rise a little to discourage this demand, simply because Britain has been using more goods than it produced and has covered this deficit temporarily by living on its reserves, on foreign debt and on gifts.

That could not go on for long. As Mr. Butler, the chancellor of the exchequer says, Britain must try to live within its means by the end of this year, to balance its exports and imports. This simply means that Britain must reduce its own consumption of goods. If wages are raised, however, the demand for goods will increase and, with no increase in the supply, prices will rise, exports will fall and the total supply of goods will drop still further.

The mathematics of this problem are obvious but the politics are confused. The real question in Britain today is whether in practical politics the government can hold the wage line by decree or persuasion. This would be difficult enough under the best of circumstances. It is all the more difficult when the government has a frail majority in Parliament and evidently has suffered a heavy loss of support among the voters since the last election.

In this tight situation the government found one easy safety valve. It has reduced the pace of the armament program again and thus turned guns into butter by using part of the materials and manpower going into defense to increase the manufacture of exports.

Once before the armament program was stretched out, and to this extent Mr. Churchill has been compelled to accept the reasoning of his chief enemy, Mr. Bevan. This later stretch-out, announced last week, should ease the present tension. But any relief the government thus obtains, at the cost of military weakness, could be quickly cancelled out by a general rise in wages, costs and prices, and reduced sales in the world market.

News for the Housewife

LOOKING OVER THE NEW WAGE pattern of Canadian industry, The Financial Post predicts general price increases much sharper than those already announced for May and June. By autumn, it thinks, the increased rates of wages and the resulting higher costs of production should be revealing themselves at the retail level. In the end the housewife must pay all these costs.

Three major current wage negotiations of themselves will affect prices and, by stimulating wage increases in other industries, can have still wider results.

The Canadian steel industry has recently accepted an agreement with the steel union which, The Post calculates, will raise the cost of steel production by something like $6 millions during the next year.

The meat packing industry is preparing to pay higher wages which are expected to raise the price of meat at the moment when it has already begun to rise again after a brief decline. This will be interesting news to the housewife whose meat prices in recent times have been deliberately held up by the government at the cost of the taxpayers.

But much more important in its probable results is the present dispute between the Canadian railways and their unions. If the unions receive anything like their wage demands the increased cost of railway operations will have to be paid in increased freight rates, and freight rates literally affect the price of every item of goods sold in Canada. The Canadian economy, The Post concludes, is "off to the inflation races." But only yesterday the government and business were worrying about deflation. No wonder the housewife is puzzled.

Swimming Pool for Dallas Road

PROPOSALS TO THROW A SEA-wall across the mouth of Horseshoe Bay or to excavate a swimming pool at some point along the Dallas Road bank have been heard from year to year. In reviving them at this time Alderman Macmillan ties them in with current suggestions for a wider development of the Beacon Hill waterfront, including windbreaks, tearooms and other amenities.

Victorians therefore will await with interest any concrete estimate of the cost of such a project. Cost will be the ultimate deciding point—whether the enjoyment to be derived will warrant the expense involved.

On the negative side there is a sizeable body of opinion in favor of leaving the waterfront in a semi-wild state. The high grassy banks have been likened to certain sections of the English coast and have a distinctive beauty and attraction of their own. Any man-made improvements should be integrated with the general topography and designed to enhance the natural charm of the area.

The temperature of the sea, unfortunately, does not encourage bathers, and provision of a pool that could be heated by the sun might overcome the handicap that now prevents full utilization of this great civic asset.

Victoria is unique among many seaside communities, in that much of its coastline has been saved from commercial construction. That is a heritage that should be preserved and, where feasible, improved.

BOB RUARK SAYS

Too Many Pimpily Punks

NEW YORK—There has been much talk of youthful hoodlums in the papers lately, and many recordings of wanton attacks by pimply punks on innocent bystanders. You read the headlines about the two junior jerks who shot a strange rabbi for laughs, and you see the rising statistics on crime, and you read of the dope addiction among the young and of the muggings and thrill murders.

And you are prone to say shucks, this happens to other people, and then something closely akin happens to you and you sit up a little sharper. It happened to me the other night. If I carried a gun I think I might have used it.

In a perfectly respectable part of town, Mama and I hailed a cab after a movie. The cab stopped in front of me. Three young punks came and grabbed the door. I showed the missus inside and got halfway in myself. One of them slammed the door on my leg. I boiled out in a large fury, forgetting my bald head, gimpy leg and encroaching girth—for a second.

I approach the punks like a tank, and back they go—a step. And then they saw what they had in way of competition, and stopped. I stopped at about the same time, with wisdom suddenly surging through my skull. I stopped when I saw their faces.

HERE on three kids, no older than 19 of 20, was about as nasty a set of triple leers as I ever hope to see. It was one of those things you don't like to see on people—slack-jawed, stupid but ingrained mean all the way.

A fast-thought-runs-through-my-head: "I can take one with a punch." I figure, "I may get in a kick on another, but the third one is a cinch to have a knife or a zip gun or a black-jack and all of a sudden I am down in the street with my head busted or my belly leaking or my mouth kicked in and for what? Three lousy little hoodlums who will make it the hard way to the electric chair without my help in due time anyway, and why should I be the corpus delicti to hurry them to the hot squat?"

SO I RIP off a fair swear, smother my inclination to bust skulls due to lack of ability—jerk the door shut and then tell the cab to take off. There was no policeman handy, and nothing much would have happened if there had been. One of the little hoodlums kicked the fender as the cab went away and tossed a few loving remarks behind it. I fumed all the rest of the evening over not being equipped with a gun or a bow and arrow or a baseball bat or anything else sufficiently lethal to save the state an eventual chance of removing them from society.

I HAVE lived around big cities for some years and cannot remember, as much juvenile crime—foolish crime, gratuitous crime, wanton crime, crime for crime's sake—as we have recorded recently. The New York World-Telegram and Sun has been running a telling series, the gist of which is that decent people aren't safe on New York streets, with the extra quotient of danger attributed to callow youths who have no excuse to prey other than innate onerousness.

This is the kind of youth such as one Bernice Kuchinski, who belted his mother in a courtroom the other day—a senseless punk of 16 with a record already behind him. Off he goes to Bellevue for observation, too, and they will find that he is misunderstood and cut him loose again to heist a few candy stores and roll a few drunks and mug an old lady until he eventually kills somebody in a fit of idiotic rage and the state administers the permanent sun-burn.

YOU cannot tell me that society is making them bad, because there are less poor people and more opportunities around now than in the history of the country—more free this, more free that, more "understanding," more counseling, more everything. What I think we need is a reversion to the hickory switch, the woodshed, and a little more parental control in the old-fashioned way, where a child don't sass his old man without a cuff to cool him down. A handy jack handle was all you truly needed, the other night, to reinstate a little respect for elders, and especially strange elders who are doing no harm to strange adolescents.

Reading Time—Six Months

Edmonton Journal

We live in a shrinking world these days, but few things have underlined it as has the new jet air service just established between Britain, India and Ceylon.

A "Comet" jetliner has just made the trip from London to Colombo in 21 hours, 27 minutes; This means approximately three days from Edmonton to India by way of the United Kingdom, counting stops. Propeller-driven aircraft formerly made the London-Rome-Karachi-Bombay trip in 36 hours.

The real contrast, however, is with the sea voyages that were necessary when Europeans first ventured in the East. Vasco da Gama, the pioneer navigator, left Lisbon on July 9, 1497, and on May 20, 1498, arrived at an Indian port, having been almost a year on the journey.

Later, when British power was established in India, and specially designed sailing ships—the famous "East Indiamen"—were built for this service, the length of the voyage was considerably reduced.

But even so a traveler to Bombay or Calcutta could expect to be as much as six months at sea. Englishmen assigned to posts in India used to take good-sized libraries along, and often acquired a liberal education during the endless weeks,

As Our Readers See It

SKILLINGS JOINS SOCRIDS

I suppose you will receive many letters regarding that announcement in your paper of Aug. 15.

"There is no band-wagon like a good band-wagon."

Need a boost, Waldo?

D. KOMICH.

BIG LEAP

It would be interesting to know from Alderman Waldo Skillings, our raucous man of public affairs, how he can square himself with the public in his volte face from potential federal Conservative candidate to possible Socred candidate? His loudly proclaimed activities in the interests of his supporters in the political and civic field would seem to be woefully submerged in his own self-interest.

During the recent election the good alderman and his wife took a very prominent part for the local Conservatives to encourage the electorate to vote for the candidates of that party and to abstain from voting for the Social Credit candidates. His overnight conversion to the victorious Socreds reflects surely upon his honesty of purpose as one seeking to represent the people.

It is the sort of conduct that reflects upon the integrity of men in political life. No one is likely to be deceived by the Skillings move and I am quite certain the local Social Credit party will not hall with pleasure his big announcement in Friday's Times.

HONEST JOE.

EARLY PEOPLE

Various letters appearing this month in your "Readers' section" seem to me to call for further words. Why all this difficulty about man, the universe and the Bible? There is nothing in the Bible to preclude there having been people living on this planet for millions of years.

The Bible is the story of the Adamic race, and more particularly of the people of Israel.

God "created" man in the pre-Adamic "day" and who can say how long that "day" was—not even the geologists. Then when wickedness increased on the earth God formed a plan to redeem His creation. He "formed" a new race (not created this time)—first Adam and later Eve, and He breathed into their nostrils the breath of life and man became a living soul, and He granted them free will. From here on the Book of Books deals with this race which has now existed for nearly six millenniums.

When God created colored races He meant them to stay colored, and having formed the Adamic race white He meant it to remain white, therefore more than once they were forbidden to intermarry with other races.

'The Meaning Is Quite Unknown'

Your correspondent Mr. G. Holdcroft is very ready to brand non-believers in the supernatural as being materialists. Does Mr. Holdcroft believe in fairies or Father Christmas? I can point to excellent proofs to prove the existence of both. I can show you fairy rings in the grass where Pixies undoubtedly have danced and hundreds of thousands of small children will enthusiastically testify to the reality of Father Christmas. They first believe in his existence on the excellent authority of their beloved parents. Later they meet something of a caricature of Santa Claus around Christmas in their local store, but of course the strongest proofs of his existence are the splendid gifts they receive on Christmas morning from this benevolent old buffoon.

I often wonder do parents at all realize the harm they do in telling their children all these lies about a Father Christmas. Does not the child feel let down when he or she learns the truth and remembers his parents' smirks and grins?

If fairy rings are not enough evidence for Mr. Holdcroft thousands of my fellow Irishmen and women and children will gladly testify to having seen with their own eyes and spoken to the "little people."

But why should a rationalist who finds himself unable to believe in the supernatural (and surely that is what all religion really is) without any reasonable or scientific evidence of its existence whatever, why, I ask, should he or she be called a materialist?

If Mr. Holdcroft doesn't believe in the hard facts of this life let him kick hard on the first stone wall he meets, that will be his answer. If he does believe in them, then he is quite as much a materialist as anyone else.

Mr. Holdcroft says there must be a cause of the universe. But why is he content to postulate a creator without giving that creator a cause too? An eternal uncaused creator is just as mysterious and unknowable as is an eternal uncaused universe. Bernard Shaw has brought out this very point in much better words than mine.

We have adequate, nay overwhelming, proof of the existence of the universe, but none whatever of the existence of the supernatural or a creator however interesting he may be as a theory or hypothesis. It is quite amusing to find Mr. Holdcroft asking us to prove the non-existence of God! Could Mr. Holdcroft himself prove a negative? Let us say the non-existence of a black cat in an absolutely dark room, supposing the cat wasn't there?

We rationalists sincerely aver that the ultimate meaning of things is quite unknown and, as Herbert Spencer said, most probably unknowable by our limited minds. We openly and humbly, I hope, express our ignorance of the origin, purpose and possible end of this universe, if end there can be. Nor do we presume to forecast the ultimate fate of the human race.

We are content to do our best, as we see it, here and now, in the life we find ourselves placed, by no wish or choice of our own.

"HUMANIST."

Smoothing Off The Rough Edges

By JOSEPH and STEWART ALSOP
From Washington

GOV. ADLAI E. STEVENSON'S visit to the White House pretty well nipped in the bud at least one burgeoning Republican hope. There is no longer much likelihood of a falling out between the Democratic candidate and President Harry S. Truman. It may be added that the prophets began to predict such a falling out, and the Republicans began to hope for it, quite a little time after the danger had really passed.

The real story of the curious and somewhat uneasy Truman-Stevenson relationship is relatively simple in outline. From the very first, as was pointed out very early in this space, there was a major issue to be settled between the President and the nominee. Would Stevenson declare his independence, or would he allow himself to be overshadowed by Truman?

Truman wanted two things which meant overshadowing Stevenson almost completely. He wanted to campaign nearly as actively as the candidate himself, in his familiar whistlestop manner. And he wanted to keep his hand on the campaign organization, by continuing Frank McKinney in his post as chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

It was more than two weeks ago when Stevenson made it clear that he could not go along with Truman on either of these crucial points. In fact the real crisis between the two men seems to have been reached rather soon after the Democratic convention, when Stevenson indicated that he did not wish to retain McKinney as national chairman. This was the definite declaration of independence. At the same time, Stevenson also made it pretty clear that he did not wish the President to carry out his plan for whistlestop campaigning.

The news reached Truman during his post-convention vacation at Independence, Mo. According to those close to him, the President was at first both hurt and angered by the seeming rebuff.

Yet Truman is always a good soldier. He has a downright religious respect for political traditions—and there is no stronger political tradition than the right of a presidential candidate to boss his own campaign. Moreover, after reflection, Truman also saw the force of Stevenson's argument, that he needed a chance to make his mark with the voters as a major political personality in his own right.

There was some further maneuvering, undoubtedly, before the President and the party leaders accepted Stevenson's highly personal choice of Stephen A. Mitchell to succeed McKinney as national chairman. Nonetheless, the real issue between Truman and Stevenson had already been settled long before the President returned to Washington. Hence the Truman-Stevenson meeting at the White House could be, and was, rather cut-and-dried. The atmosphere between the two men has been described, by one who should know, as "not cozy but comfortable." They made their joint campaign plan easily and without serious argument.

There is sound strategy in the plan they agreed on—speeches by both Stevenson and Truman on Labor Day; intensive cross-country campaigning by Stevenson thereafter; and further speeches or perhaps a short campaign tour by Truman after Oct. 1. The plan minimizes the chances of any Truman-Stevenson crossed wires.

Accidents can always happen, of course, but there is now only one major area where it is realistic to look for a Truman-Stevenson disagreement. This is the area of such great policy questions as civil rights and the Taft-Hartley Law. This area is not supercharged with personal tensions, as was the issue of Stevenson's independence of, or dependence upon, Truman. Yet it can conceivably make trouble, nonetheless.

Ups and Downs

"I SEE," said the Elevator Man, "where the Provincial Museum has acquired an old Indian 'soul snatcher.' It seems the medicine men used to use them to catch souls escaping from bodies. Well, it's about time they looked that thing up in a glass case. It's been working overtime, and there don't seem to be very many souls left these days. There couldn't have been many souls among the Nazis, who tortured and killed millions of human beings. There can't be many souls among the Communists, who keep millions of their people in a living death in labor camps and slave mines. There can be only a light sprinkling of souls among all those who rob and hurt and kill for gain, for hate or for a thrill. There are too many bodies around without souls, like umbrellas left over after everyone's gone from a party. One to each customer, no more, no less, is the rule. When the rule's ignored, you run into trouble like—well, what we have. Lower main!"

"It seems to me," said the Elevator Man, "one of the reasons for humanity's moral shortage just now is our tendency to compromise. That's a good enough practice when you're trying to settle a dispute with another person. But it doesn't work when the other fellow is your worse half. It's like a tug-of-war. If you give in a little bit the chances are you'll have to give in a lot. And before you know it the compromise is a surrender. Souls and souls both wear out from backsliding. Mezzanine!"

"Some of us," said the Elevator Man, "are mighty careless with our souls. We leave them around where even a part-time Satan could snatch 'em. We're like that fella the two waiters were talking about. 'He's very careless,' said one. 'He'd mislay his head if it was loose.' 'Yes,' says the other. 'Only yesterday I heard him say he was going back to Arizona for his lungs.'"

National Health Insurance, 30-Hour Week T.L.C. Aims, Says Bengough

WINNIPEG, Man., Aug. 18 (BUP)—Percy Bengough, president of the Trades and Labor Congress, served notice today the 522,000-member organization will press for a national health insurance plan and improvement in working conditions of government employees.

In his presidential address to the 600 delegates attending the T.L.C. convention, Bengough said "much still remains to be done before the hours of work in government employment are reduced to a maximum of 40 per week and a five-day is established on a year-round basis."

He noted that at least 30,000 federal government workers are members of organizations affiliated with the T.L.C. "and this figure would be doubled if we included those employed by crown corporations."

Bengough said the executive council had established a permanent committee to deal with the problems of federal employees and had made "considerable progress."

Members of the congress had given deeper consideration to health insurance since the last annual convention, he said. "We definitely believe that such a plan should be established on a national basis and we will continue to press the federal government for its adoption."

Turning to Communist infiltration in the labor movement, Bengough said the work of "these Stalinist agents" had been reduced substantially.

"It must be realized that believers in Communism seek only to use the trade union movement to hasten the day of its destruction," Bengough said. "Their first allegiance is not to Canada and not to our free labor movement. Their first allegiance is to the Stalinist dictatorship of Soviet Russia."

High on the pile of platform planks due for consideration at the week-long convention was a demand for a six-hour, five-day week for members of T.L.C.-affiliated unions.

Third Major Quebec Shipyard Strike Threatens Canadian Vickers Plant

MONTREAL, Aug. 18 (BUP)—Provincial mediator Cyprien Miron today made a final bid to stall off what could be the third major Canadian shipyard strike in three days.

Miron, ranking official of the Quebec labor department, worked against a 6 p.m. (E.D.T.) (3 p.m. Victoria time) deadline, the time set by 2,000 employees to start a strike against Canadian Vickers Ltd., over a pay dispute.

Members of the National Federation of Metal Trades Workers sought a 20-cent hourly raise that would bring their basic pay to $1.39 an hour. They said they wanted it backdated to Feb. 1.

Union boss S. T. Payne said his men had been negotiating for the boost for a year and got nowhere with the company that is turning out ships for the Royal Canadian Navy's stepped-up building and reconversion program. He said members of other unions at Vickers were "likely to strike with us."

There was no sign of settlement of two other shipyard strikes in Quebec. A total of 2,500 employees of the Davie Shipbuilding Company and George T. Davie and Sons Ltd., yards at Lauzon, Que., went on strike at the 6 p.m. shift last Friday to back their demands

10,000-Ton Maplecove Arrives in Vancouver 'Riding High' With Whisky Cargo for Japan

VANCOUVER, Aug. 18—Ten years ago to the day after his wartime command, the B.C.C.S. steamer Princess Marguerite, was torpedoed in the Mediterranean, Capt. R. A. Leicester, O.B.E., of Vancouver, brought the 10,000-ton Canadian Pacific freighter Maplecove to this port, from which the C.P.R. is soon to re-establish trans-Pacific service.

The Maplecove and its complement of 65 officers and crew left the Port of Montreal on July 27, traveled through the Panama Canal and up the Pacific Coast.

One stop on the west coast was made at Cuba for cargo, and replying to a remark that his ship was riding high in the water, Capt. Leicester laughingly explained that this was probably

Canada's New Cadet School Raises Quota

OTTAWA, Aug. 18 (CP)—Interest in Canada's third and newest officer-training college has been so marked that its first class is being enlarged and its scope of training broadened, Defense Minister Claxton announced today.

He said college Militaire-Royal de St-Jean at St. John's, Que., will open Sept. 15 with 125 cadets in attendance instead of the 100 originally announced. Applications close Aug. 31 and there already have been 1,200 inquiries and more than 220 firm applications, he said, with more coming in daily.

The second change means that the cadets will be trained at Fort St. John not for one year as originally announced but for two or three, putting it on much the same basis as the other two services colleges, Royal Military College at Kingston and Royal Roads on Vancouver Island.

Thus it now will be possible for a young man to take entirely at Fort St. John the two-year course now required to fit him for a commission in the so-called "line" or executive branches of the forces.

Training for the technical branches takes longer.

Mr. Claxton said priority will be given to applicants who say they will serve at least three years in the regular forces after graduation.

Construction of additional buildings at Fort St. John, including a chapel, will begin soon.

Navy Warns Balloons Are Going Up

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18 (AP)—The navy sought today to forestall a rash of flying-saucer reports by announcing plans to launch a series of cross-country balloon flights this week.

Primary purpose of the flight is to "study atmospheric radio wave propagation characteristics by use of balloon-borne electronic equipment," the navy said in a news release.

Navy spokesmen declined to elaborate. Projects of this kind normally are kept secret, but it was acknowledged that this one was being announced in advance to prevent it from adding to public speculation about strange objects in the sky.

The balloons, 37 feet in diameter, will be released near Tillamook, Ore. Because of the prevailing winds, they are expected to float across the country from west to east.

The first probably will be launched today, weather permitting.

QUEBEC'S ROY MENTIONED AS CARDINAL CANDIDATE

VATICAN CITY, Aug. 18 (CP)—A new report that the Pope is nearing a decision on renewing the membership of the Roman Catholic Church's College of Cardinals appeared Sunday in the Roman press.

The usually-reliable Il Tempo said that the Pontiff, now at his summer palace in Castel Gandolfo, "is carrying to completion his studies for the grand reform of the sacred college and the high hierarchy of the church."

According to these reports, the Pontiff's studies consider giving all countries a seat in "the senate of the church."

There was no immediate comment from Vatican circles.

The death of Michael Cardinal von Faulhaber of Munich last June reduced to 46 the number of living princes of the church. The College of Cardinals as constituted after the great consistory of 1946 now has 24 vacancies.

(James Cardinal McGuigan, Roman Catholic Archbishop of Toronto, is Canada's only cardinal. There has been some speculation that Most Rev. Maurice Roy, Archbishop of Quebec, might get a red hat. French-Canadians have been without a cardinal since the death five years ago of Rodrigue Cardinal Villeneuve.)

French Explorer Buried In Cave Where He Died

LICQ-ATHERY, France, Aug. 18 (AP)—A bronze cross and two photographs were lowered to the deep underground grave of French cave-explorer Marcel Loubens today as rescuers prepared to bring the last survivor from an exploration party to the surface.

Three other men were brought up Saturday night and Sunday from 1,153 feet below in the Pierre St. Martin cave in the Pyrennes Mountains. Loubens died there after falling 120 feet last Thursday when either the cable pulling him to the surface snapped or some trouble developed in the hauling mechanism.

At dawn today the mementos were lowered to be placed on the rock grave improvised for him in the abyss. The photographs were of his wife, Hugette, and his two-year-old son, Patrick. Sunday, a Spanish priest at the mouth of the cave recited prayers and gave the Church's benediction for Loubens, 33-year-old director of a Paris factory.

He and the three men below when he fell had been exploring the abyss as members of an expedition led by Belgian physicist Max Cosyns.

The cross and photographs were placed on the grave by Dr. Andre Mairey, who had gone down in a vain attempt to save Loubens' life after he fell 120 feet to the rocks below.

Ike Announces Surprise Invasion of South

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18 (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, planning a flying foray into the traditionally Democratic south, is apparently convinced he can swing some southern states to the Republican column in the November presidential election.

The Republican nominee, it was learned, is arranging for a swift tour by plane which will take him into perhaps a dozen major cities in at least seven southern states.

The Dixie campaign tour—unprecedented for a Republican presidential candidate—is scheduled tentatively to start Sept. 2, the day after Labor Day.

The decision to campaign in the south was made after the general conferred here a week ago with an eight-state delegation of Dixie supporters.

They convinced him the Republicans have a chance to crack the solid south for the first time since 1928, when Herbert Hoover did it without personally campaigning there.

In the Democratic camp at Springfield, Ill., Governor Adlai Stevenson and his nine-member strategy board have sketched in broad outline these tactics for the Democratic presidential campaign.

Major speaking tours by Stevenson, traveling by train and airplane, geared for the most part to a television time table; a country-wide speaking barrage by a team of 100 Democratic senators, representatives, governors and other party leaders.

Plans were worked out in weekend conferences between Stevenson and his strategy board.

Today, Stevenson planned to begin a brief vacation at the resort town of Minocqua, Wis.

Stevenson was in the congregation Sunday when a Presbyterian minister, a personal friend of his, accused Illinois' Republican Senator Everett Dirksen of telling a "blatant lie."

The minister, Rev. Richard Paul Graebel, in a sermon referred to the senator's statement recently that Stevenson was "the worst governor we've had since the turn of the century."

In Washington, meanwhile, the Americans for Democratic Action, which sought Eisenhower's nomination for president four years ago, announced that it opposes his bid as the Republican candidate this year.

Crude Production Gains in Busy Alberta Oil Fields

CALGARY, Aug. 18 (CP)—Alberta crude oil production in the week ended Aug. 11 increased by more than 65,000 barrels from the previous week.

The Alberta Petroleum and Natural Gas Conservation Board reported today that daily average production in the week ended Aug. 11 was 202,691 barrels compared to 137,666 barrels the previous week and 172,906 barrels the corresponding week last year.

Production came from 3,265 wells either producing or capable of producing, an increase of 30 over the previous week.

The Redwater field accounted for most of the increase as its daily average increased from 54,436 to 96,017. Leduc field production increased from 40,700 to 53,305 daily.

Sixty exploratory and development wells were completed in Alberta during the first two weeks of August. Of this total, 34 were potential crude oil producers, two were capable of natural gas production and 24 were dry holes.

Leading the way was the Arma-Camrose Viking sand production area with 14 successful oil wells and one abandonment. The Leduc-Woodbend field followed with nine new oil wells.

"The problem of criminal sanctions now has been dealt with by the recently-ratified amendments to the extradition treaty between this country and Canada," Cook said.

"It should provide equally advantageous both to Canadian issuers which look to this country for the capital necessary for the development of Canada's natural resources and to U.S. investors who wish to participate in the industrial growth of Canada."

Cook noted that for many years the S.E.C. has provided exemption from registration for small offerings of domestic securities. Extension of this privilege to Canadian issues has been delayed by the lack of suitable sanctions for the enforcement of civil and criminal provisions of the law as they might affect Canadian citizens.

LIVESTOCK

CALGARY, Aug. 18 (CP)—Trade was not too brisk on the local livestock market today and prices were 50 cents to $1 or more lower on several classes. Noveal calves were sold early, but indications were steady. On offer were 599 cattle and calves.

Good to choice butcher steers were barely steady. Good to choice light and heavy butcher heifers were 50 cents to $1 lower. Good, light cows were $1 or more lower, heavy fat cows barely steady at last week's sharp decline. Bulls were around $1 lower. Good quality light stocker and feeder steers were about steady, fair to medium kinds slower.

Hogs closed steady last week at $25, while sows gained 15 cents, closing at $15.55.

Production of 70 per cent pelleted iron concentrates from Mesabi Range low grade taconite will reach 11,000,000 tons annually by 1960. Capital outlay by companies involved more than $1,000,000.

Investigation...

Every day we are called upon to make investigations of one kind or another, either in the ordinary course of business or as a special service. Here is what we mean...

Recently one of our Insurance Company friends told us his organization was considering buying additional shares of a company that we knew pretty well. He requested that we give him an up-to-date report on how this company was doing. This turned out to be relatively easy... we had a report within half an hour, and he had the information on which to base a decision.

On the same day, in the mail, our Toronto Office received a request for a report on a new company and its management, rumoured to be just getting started. While this company was located on the west coast, Toronto was able to obtain some basic information which went out in the mail that night. At the same time over our wire, our Vancouver Office was requested to obtain additional specific details... these were received within three days and gave our friend the balance of the information he required.

We are not trying to leave the impression that we know all the answers, or can get the answers to everything, but... when it comes to accurate investment information on which decisions may be based, we can provide a great deal and are glad to do it. This is part of our service which we think is good business... good for us and good for our clients. If you have an investment problem or need information about your securities of a special or even of a general nature, we believe we can help you. This type of service is available, if you call at any of our offices... or if it is more convenient, just drop us a line. There is no charge, and of course no obligation.

Shortages Promote B.C. Iron Demand

By BURKE CAHILL, Times Business Editor

The tight squeeze on steel supplies for industry in Canada arising out of the prolonged strike south of the line is expected to last well into 1953.

The longest strike in the history of the United States steel industry, which ended recently with a round of higher wages and prices is estimated to have lost 20,000,000 tons of steel. This is almost five times as much steel as Canada produces in a year.

The effects of steel shortage in Canada naturally bring to the fore all the arguments for expanding the industry in this country. And in British Columbia, farthest removed from centres of Canadian steel supply, local production of the vital industrial material is again being strongly urged.

Recent reports that Vancouver Island iron ore is being shipped to United States west coast steel mills have prompted two British Columbia members of Parliament, Howard Green and Arthur Laing, to demand that Ottawa aid in the establishment of a steel industry in this province.

The current shipments of B.C. iron ore to west coast steel mills in the United States appear to be a direct result of the shortages of iron brought on by the lengthy strike. Iron mines supplying the U.S. steel industry were also shut down by the unions during the walkout.

Steel plants on the west coast south of the line previously relied on shipments of ore hauled all the way from the east by water. These were mixed with scrap to make steel for local supplies.

The sharp pinch on supplies of raw materials for western steel plants in the U.S. seems to have prompted the demand for B.C. ore, for the first time in history.

At the same time, it is reported that the newly-formed B.C. firm, Western Canada Steel, is also taking supplies of Island ore for experiments in steel smelting on the mainland.

The sobering experience of the drastic shut-off in U.S. steel and iron ore supplies and the resulting demand for B.C. ore comes at a time when a lot of thought and effort locally is being directed towards steel production in British Columbia.

The history of attempts to found a primary steel industry in this province, one that at least would fill a frustrating one. What has been essential all along is a concerted drive to prove up ore.

Plans to Split Combine of Chemical Companies Listed

Plans for breaking up an alleged chemical combine said to include Canadian Industries Limited have been sent to C.I.L. shareholders.

In a letter to shareholders, C.I.L. outlines a recent United States court judgment ordering Imperial Chemical Industries Ltd., of Britain, and E. I. du Pont Co. of the U.S. to end their joint interest in Canadian Industries Limited.

The letter sets out a choice of four plans suggested by the United States court by which that joint interest in the Canadian company might be ended.

The plans are: (a) sale of shares of C.I.L. stock owned or controlled by I.C.I. and du Pont to parties unassociated with the two companies; or (b) sale of the stock owned by either I.C.I. or du Pont to such unassociated parties; or (c) sale of the stock owned by du Pont or I.C.I. to the other; or (d) segregation of physical division of the plants and properties of C.I.L. between I.C.I. and du Pont so as to create in Canada a situation in harmony with United States law.

Any of the defendants or the United States Department of Justice may appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States within 60 days.

"It is not known what plan will be proposed," the letter states. "The company, however, has received assurance of I.C.I. and du Pont that if they should decide to submit a plan involving segregation or physical division of the plants and properties of the company they will, before submitting the plan to

FLEMING EQUALS COURSE RECORD AT GORGE VALE

Bob Fleming of Gorge Vale, twice runner-up for the B.C. Amateur golf title, Sunday returned to the form that made him one of the outstanding golfers in the province a year ago.

Fleming equalled the course record at Gorge Vale with a six-under-par 66 in a team match with Port Angeles.

He was out in 35 and closed with rash of birdies to fire a 31 on the incoming nine.

Fleming has entered the Canadian Amateur tourney to be played at Vancouver Capilano starting a week from today.

Idie Sunday, the Tyees split with Yakima Bears Saturday. Bill Prior hurling a two-hit 20 shutout in the seven-inning opener of the double bill, Jehosie Heard taking the loss in the 4-3 nightcap.

Heard relieved Bill Bottler, the Bears breaking a 3-3 tie in the bottom of the ninth.

On Saturday Salem handed Spokane a double defeat, 7-3 and 4-2.

In Sunday's only other league action, Lewiston Braves and Tri-City Braves divided a double bill, the Braves winning the opener, 3-0, on Dale Thomason's four-hitter. George Nunez hurled a three-hitter in the 4-1 afterpiece.

BEST EFFORT

Prior's performance Saturday was his best of the season, the lanky right-hander having a no-hitter in his grasp until the fifth frame.

It was his first shutout in professional ball.

Bob Moniz drove in both runs. Milt Martin's bat threw enabled the Bears to score the winning run in the second game.

Exhibition Game Planned By Cougars

New Westminster Royals will meet Victoria Cougars of the Western Hockey League in a pre-season exhibition game at Memorial Arena, Oct. 3, it has been announced by general manager Fred Hutchinson of the Cougars.

Cougars will open their regular season at home against Vancouver on Oct. 9.

Vancouver and New Westminster play the Cougars seven times in Victoria; Tacoma and Seattle six, and Calgary, Saskatoon and Edmonton three, according to the home schedule released Saturday.

Hutchinson will attend the fall meeting of the W.H.L. in Saskatoon this week, while club owner Lester Patrick leaves for Montreal and the Canadiens' training camp about Sept. 1.

Cougars plan to open training at home on or about Sept. 26.

SOOKE JUNIORS DROP PROVINCIAL TITLE SERIES

CHILLIWACK, B.C., Aug. 18 (CP)—Yarrow junior softballers are provincial champions for the second straight year. In games Saturday night and Sunday afternoon, the Yarrow nine turned back a Sooke, Vancouver Island, squad, 9-4 and 4-1.

At the conclusion of the Sunday game, Yarrow received the Cece McKenzie Memorial Trophy, emblematic of provincial supremacy.

Oak Bay, Albions Still Tied for Cricket Lead

The exclusive Victoria and District Cricket Association lead today belongs to two teams, Oak Bay and Albions.

Oak Bay had sole lease on the lead for 24 hours when they defeated Alcos 94-93 Saturday afternoon to take a two-point lead. However Albions jumped back into a tie for the front seat Sunday with a resounding 193-79 victory over Cowichan.

Five C's defeated Incogs 52-29 Saturday behind stary bowling of Jim Richards who took seven wickets for nine runs. He bowled the last three batters for a hat trick.

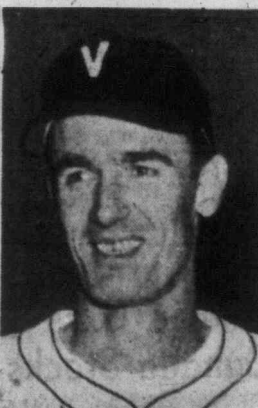

Albion, 25; Oak Bay, 23; Cowichan, 19; Alcos, 94; Incogs, 52; Victoria, 193; Sooke, 9; Yarrow, 4; Sooke, 4; Yarrow, 1.

Baker to play amateur basketball again.

The long-awaited telegram arrived over the week-end, giving Norm Baker the right to play amateur basketball again.

Baker has been in the bad books of the Canadian Amateur Basketball Association since he returned to professional basketball after being reinstated once. His request for a second reinstatement was turned down last year.

Baker said this morning that he had no immediate basketball plans but that he was gratified to receive the reinstatement and was looking forward to playing again.

Archie Browning

Blond-haired forward on the Victoria Shamrocks, Browning still leads scorers in the Inter-city Lacrosse League although he is closely pursued by line-mate Whitey Severson. Browning has 68 goals and 22 assists for 90 points while Severson has 27 goals and 62 assists for 89 points.

In a joint statement the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association and the Amateur Hockey Association of the United States said that "in view of the apparently innumerable incidents of the past few years" during hockey tours they "do not look with much enthusiasm upon future European tours."

Neither country will participate in the world event "unless both bodies are invited under the same conditions."

The statement was signed by W. B. (Baldy) George of Kempenfelt, Ont., newly-elected president of the C.A.H.A., and Tommy Lockhart of New York, president of the American body.

The 1953 world championship is scheduled for Zurich, Switzerland, in April. No Canadian team has been named but it is known that two or three intermediate clubs have

Sven Jensen Appointed To T.L.C. Label Body

WINNIPEG, Aug. 18 — Sven Jensen, Victoria delegate to the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada convention that opened here today, has been elected to the board of directors of the new union label trades department.

The move to promote the use of union labels, shop cards and buttons in soliciting patronage for union establishments was launched Sunday by delegates to the 67th annual convention of the congress.

The delegates, meeting before the opening of the convention, approved a constitution for a new wing of the T.L.C. to be known as the Union Label Trades Department.

It will be composed of T.L.C. unions using labels, cards and buttons on the products of their members to designate union membership.

To date, individual unions have obtained agreements for the use of labels. A spokesman said the new department aims at a concentrated effort towards greater label use.

The department lists among its objectives the promotion of a greater demand for products bearing the union label and for labor done by union workers.

President of the department will be one of the vice-presidents elected at the T.L.C. convention and selected by the executive council. G. C. Cushing, T.L.C. secretary-treasurer, will be secretary for the first year.

Other directors are Mrs. Emily Ross, Edmonton; Ed Smith, Vancouver; Tom C. Whitsett, Hamilton and W. J. Burrows, Calgary.

BONNER URGES TUNNEL LINKS WITH MAINLAND

NANAIMO, Aug. 18. — Tunnels linking Vancouver Island with the mainland have been suggested by George Bonner, president of the Vancouver Island Ratepayers' Association.

Mr. Bonner told a Nanaimo meeting last week that cheap transportation would result from tunnels. He claimed, too, that an American syndicate was interested in the proposal.

He maintained the syndicate thought it feasible to put one tunnel under Seymour Narrows and another from Nanaimo to Vancouver's Point Grey. The tunnels, if built, would operate on a toll basis, he said.

B.C. HONORS

Lumber Graders Compete

Fifty-two contestants took part in the annual B.C. lumber grading competition at the Victoria division of the B.C. Forest Products Ltd. Saturday.

Entrants came from Vancouver, New Westminster, Victoria, Youbou, Honeycomb Bay, Chemainus, Nanaimo and Port Alberni.

Judges for the competition were Les Dixon, chief inspector of the B.C. Lumber Manufacturers' Association; R. B. Waldron, superintendent of the Pacific Lumber Inspection Bureau, and O. A. Lauritzen, educational director for the B.C. Lumber Manufacturers.

Names of winners will be announced later.

Winners, in addition to prizes, have a better chance of promotion at their respective mills.

Strange Pet

Carol and Linda Emery, 1851 Midgard, can claim to have the most unusual pet in their neighborhood... and perhaps in Victoria. The nine and seven-year-old children play with a tame bumble bee. The bee likes to crawl on their arms and faces. They give it exercises and feed it on honey and water. The children picked up the bee two weeks ago with a broken wing. The wing is mended, but the bee stays on.

and was refloated again Sunday. The four-man crew of the Canadian Fishing Company packer Comox were rescued by a passing tug when the boat sank after hitting a jagged rock off the south end of the island.

The Comox was towed to Vancouver for repairs.

Bandit Killed In Gun Battle

LINCOLN, New Hampshire (BUP).—A bandit was shot to death and another man was wounded during a hold-up attempt at a New Hampshire White Mountain summer resort early today.

Wallace Charette, 23, of Lincoln, was shot and killed while he and his brother, Vernon, 20, were trying to obtain a safe combination from Joseph Hudon, a restaurant operator at Indian Head Lodge near Lincoln, New Hampshire. George Lang, Hudon's assistant, came to his aid and the gun battle started.

Vernon was seized alive at the scene and held on an open charge for questioning.

Philippines Fires Leave 600 Homeless

MANILA, Aug. 18 (AP).—Fires during the weekend destroyed large sections of two Philippine towns, left 600 homeless, and caused damage which authorities estimated at $750,000. There were no reports of casualties.

One fire razed a city block in Tabaco, southeast Luzon port. Police estimated the damage at $500,000.

Another destroyed the business centre of Marikina, port on the south central island of Bohol. It left 600 homeless and caused damage placed at $250,000.

Socreds' Field Day Entertains Hundreds

Victoria Social Crediters—and hundreds of persons with no political affiliations—had themselves a bang-up time at Royal Athletic Park Saturday afternoon and evening.

A "gigantic field day," sponsored by the Socreds' Women's Auxiliary, turned out to be an unqualified success. Everyone, including Premier and Mrs. W. A. C. Bennett and his cabinet, joined in the spirit of the affair.

The Socreds' women's auxiliaries originally intended to hold merely a Social Credit picnic, but the plans snowballed to such an extent it finally ended up a program, bazaar, revue and political rally.

There were dancers, drill teams, comedy baseball, cooking and refreshment booths, children's and adult races, a male beauty contest (judged by women), and dancing on the green.

Premier Bennett, in his opening address, predicted an extended period of prosperity for B.C.

Besides the premier and Mrs. Bennett, senior Social Crediters

Angular Trombone Makes Appearance; No Stretch, Strain

CHANTAQUA, N.Y., Aug. 18 (AP).—An angular trombone, which slides sideways instead of up and down, was used here Sunday in the world premier of Tibor Serly's concerto for trombone.

Davis Schuman, New York city, designer of the instrument, was soloist.

Schuman said his trombone, which angles off to the right, was designed to aid youngsters who must stretch and strain to reach the low positions on a standard instrument. The angular design shortens the length of arm required, he explained.

The musician said he thought the angular trombone also would prove useful to professionals because, he said, "There's a lack of slide room in most theatre pits."

BETWEEN TIMES

By MONTE ROBERTS

How to knit up the ravelled sleeve of care is revealed by the magazine section of this newspaper in an article headed "Insure Rest With Planning."

"So you hate to get up in the morning—especially after a hot, sleepless night."

"I hate to get up in the morning, and hate to go to bed at night, which makes me completely normal."

"Here are a few bedtime pointers which may make the prospect of arising a little pleasanter. First, be sure you have a good comfortable bed."

"(That's my trouble. I HAVE a good comfortable bed, and the prospect of arising from it is anything but pleasant.)"

"When you make your bed each morning, pull the linen taut so that not a wrinkle is visible."

"(Look, you start out to tell me how to sleep, and next thing you know, you have me standing on the cold floor in my bare feet making the bed at some unheard-of hour in the morning.)"

"Just before you are ready to get into bed, sprinkle the sheets with a fragrant, cooling dusting powder. If you can stand a pillow, touch a few drops of cologne to the case."

"(Then touch a match to the whole business, and go sleep in the garage, where the air isn't so horribly fragrant.)"

"It is wise, too, to place a bowl of ice cubes on a table next to the bed. Pour some witch hazel over the cubes and keep a large white handkerchief in the bowl."

"(If it's all the same to you, I'll skip this one. Never did like fancy mixed drinks.)"

"Then, until you fall asleep, apply the handkerchief to your forehead, and see how refreshed it makes you feel."

"(Better still, get your little doggy to step on your head with all four feet. Remember, it's the paws that refreshes.)"

"Should you wake up in the middle of the night, the cubes of course will have melted, but the remaining water is bound to be cooling."

"(I object to anything coarse, even cubes; and in addition, what do I do with the cooling water? Drink it, dangle my feet in it, or pour it over my head?)"

"And as a further encouragement to get you up and out of bed when the alarm rings, think of that delicious shower just waiting for you. Can you possibly resist such temptation?"

"(Possibly. But it would depend on WHICH delicious shower the shower happened to feature that morning. I'm a push-over for razberry.)"

Pardon me while I catch up on a little sleep.

Chief of Police Vernon Lawley of Central Saanich today reported that 28-foot launch which sank at Saanich wharf late last week is the property of Mrs. A. G. Crampton, 3093 Harriet.

Cause of the sinking was not immediately known. It has been under water for several days.

Mehir Singh, Faltham Road, pleaded guilty to a charge of driving a vehicle while his ability was impaired by alcohol and was fined $150, or 30 days in jail, when he appeared before Magistrate A. I. Thomas at a special sitting of Saanich police court today. Police said the accused was not involved in an accident.

Victoria Cycling Club, in a letter to the city today, asked for use of Beacon Hill Park roadway and police protection for a bicycle race in the park Aug. 30, at 2.30 p.m.

Satwant Singh, 906 Market, reported to city police Sunday that two car blankets and a cigarette lighter were stolen from his car while it was parked Saturday night.

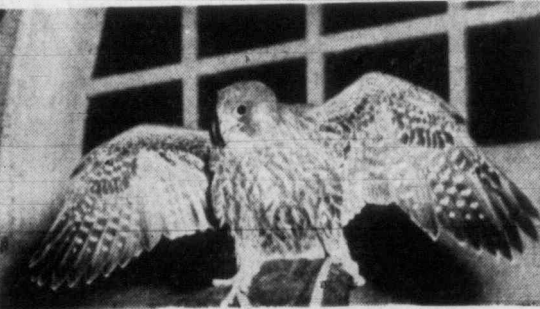

The city today received a questionnaire from U.B.C.'s research committee on planning legislation in B.C. Questions were asked relative to the Municipal, Local Improvement, Town Planning and Land Registry Acts.

May Spare Double Hospital Charges

Health and Welfare Eric Martin said today he is studying the possibility of giving relief from payment on the new dollar-a-day co-insurance for persons who have already paid the full $35 co-insurance this year under the old scheme.

"There are some legal aspects to the problem which must be studied," he said.

The minister explained that the government desire is to devise some plan whereby nobody will suffer from the timing of the institution of the new co-insurance policy.

FALCON WOULDN'T TAME

Razor-Taloned Pet Flies For Training on His Own

A "semi-tame" peregrin falcon owned by Frank Beebe, artist and naturalist on the staff of the Provincial Museum, has been missing from its Langford home since Friday, it was learned today.

Mr. Beebe captured the falcon when it was young on a recent museum expedition to the Queen Charlotte Islands. He named his pet "Hecate" and was taming it. The naturalist, a friend of eagles, owls and falcons, said he was training Hecate to make short flights on his own.

"I would like to know if anyone has seen the bird," said Mr. Beebe. "I suspect it may have gone for some pigeons and was shot. If it was doing this, I don't blame anybody for shooting it, but I would like to know just what happened."

The peregrin falcon is considered one of the swiftest and boldest of birds-of-prey. Its five-inch talons are as sharp as razors.

Officials Berate Critics Of 'Unfinished' Highway

Criticism of British Columbia's recently opened John Hart Highway in a Washington motoring manual today brought a fast reply from the public works department.

"Of course the highway is in poor condition in spots. That's because it isn't finished. That's quite obvious," said an official. He said the highway was opened recently for the benefit of those motorists who wanted to use it regardless of the condition in some places.

"When it's completed it will be a beautiful road," he said.

The American publication praised the completed sections of the 260-mile highway, but severely criticized the dust, bumps and rocks on the unfinished portions.

Grandpappy Salmon Taken at Cowichan

Biggest fish taken out of Cowichan Bay in last four years is this 43 1/2-pound spring caught Sunday by George W. Piercy, 2344 Beach Drive. An early bird, Piercy latched onto the big salmon at 6.30 in the morning. He was using a light glass rod with 200 feet of nylon line out, a 12-ounce weight and a Lucky Louie red-gill plug. Piercy was fishing with his two sons, Richard and Clive. (Photo by George N. Y. Simpson.)

STOLEN TOBACCO HAUL RECOVERED BY POLICE

City detective office today reported that as a result of co-operation between the city and Esquimalt police departments the $1,400 worth of cigarettes stolen in the western municipality on the night of July 31-Aug. 1 has been recovered.

Cigarettes were stolen from the warehouse of Clubs Ltd., 832 Viewfield.

Inspector Charles Webb, chief of city detectives, said that although no arrests have been made the loot was recovered from a residence in the city.

He said that investigations are continuing to apprehend the burglars.

OF SHIPS AND MEN

Crew Hopes Bad Omen Was Only Small Bird

By MONTE ROBERTS

It seems likely that a crow sat on the foremast of Ss. Sherborne while she was in port last week, finishing for sea.

But it was probably a small crow (symbol of bad luck to seafaring men) because a happy ending is in sight—despite a double-edged set of unfortunate circumstances.

Just before the 4,000-ton "lime juicer" sailed Friday evening, her second steward, Allan MacDonald, came down with a pain in his side.

The ship called an ambulance, he was rushed to St. Joseph's Hospital, and an appendectomy was performed.

It was bad luck that his appendix acted up, but good luck that it happened in port, and Steward MacDonald is high in his praise of the treatment received at St. Joseph's.

The ship, however, had to sail without him, as Capt. Harry Fisher knew he must get his cargo to England as soon as possible.

On Saturday the second piece of bad luck occurred. The wireless failed to function properly, and Capt. Fisher had no choice but to turn back. You can't go wallowing around the sea lanes without a voice.

Now Sherborne rides to anchor in Royal Roads, waiting examination and repairs so sparks can keep in touch with other ships, weather stations, and the rest of the world.

The waterfront hopes it was a very small crow, indeed, and that Sherborne will have a happy voyage from here on in.

U.S. Coast and Geodetic Survey has just issued a new print of nautical chart 6102, covering the approaches to Juan de Fuca Strait from Destruction Island to Amphitrite Point.

Loran data have been added to the new chart, with lines of position overprinted with lines so finely drawn they do not interfere with the conventional method of navigation.

Price of the new chart is $1. from any district office of the Coast and Geodetic Survey.

HUNTING CARGO

Reardon-Smith's Bradford City, Capt. George R. Handcock, is at Ogden Point lifting about 1,250,000 feet of lumber for U.K.

She has been jockeying around the coast for the past several days, seeking cargo. Plans to finish loading are not yet complete.

Bradford City is sister to Cornish City, same owners, who finally cleared here last week for sea after loading at Island and mainland points.

Her crew is busy over the side, with active paint brushes.

Action On Education Costs Due

Education Minister Tilly Roston said today no time will be wasted in tackling the problem of inequitable distribution of school costs, a sore point in British Columbia for years.

A special committee, named by the former government to report on the problem, submitted its report to former premier Byron Johnson. It is now presumably in the hands of Premier W. A. C. Bennett.

Members of the committee are Dr. F. T. Fairley, deputy education minister; J. V. Fisher, deputy finance minister, and B.C. Braze, deputy municipal affairs minister.

The government has briefs protesting the inequitable school costs from the Union of B.C. Municipalities, B.C. Federation of Teachers, and the B.C. Parent-Teacher Association.

Fleet's First Sub-Hunter To Leave Ways

The first of five 2,000-ton destroyer escorts to be built on the Pacific Coast for the Royal Canadian Navy will be launched by Burrard Drydock Company, North Vancouver, Tuesday evening.

The next hull to be launched by Burrard this fall will be towed to Victoria, where Yarrows Ltd. will complete the work. Victoria Machinery Depot has the contract "or another of the same class."

Work on two more D.E.'s will start at Burrard as soon as the ways are cleared.

The ship to be launched Tuesday will be christened H.M.C.S. Skeena, and will be the largest navy ship built on this coast since the Second World War.

The D.E. class is designed primarily for anti-submarine work, and speed, manoeuvrability and equipment will enable them to battle fast, modern, undersea craft.

Both the Royal Navy and the United States Navy assisted in developing the design, which has been worked out so that in the event of war these ships can be produced quickly, as frigates and corvettes, which they have superseded, were in the last war.

Ship design calls for flush deck, low bridge, considerable use of aluminum instead of steel for superstructure and compartment hull.

LITTLE BOY BADLY BITTEN BY DOG

Dennis Bate, three, 1330 Gladstone, was painfully bitten today a dog Sunday.

The little boy suffered wounds on the right cheek and under the right eye.

Police rushed him to Royal Jubilee Hospital and he was later released.

VICTORIA'S MILLWORKERS BACK ON JOB

The hum of planers, the whirr of the swift and the shriek of saws sounded again today in two Victoria millwork plants after 63 days of dead silence.

I.W.A. members employed at Crowe Gormanson Co., Ltd., 2324 Government Street, and at the millwork division of Moore-Whittington Lumber Co., Ltd., 2720 Turner Street, went back to work today, lunch pails in hand, to end the 1952 woodworkers' strike, which at one time involved 32,000 employees of B.C.'s forest industry.

The 110 Crowe-Gormanson men and 55 Moore-Whittington mill hands are the last of the strikers to return to work. Others returned to work two weeks ago on terms suggested by mediator Gordon McG. Sloan, B.C.'s chief justice.

The two local mills would not institute the mediator-recommended 5 1/2-cent-an-hour wage increase on grounds that they were already paying for higher wages than Vancouver millwork plants.

After two weeks of further negotiations, the union finally agreed to a company settlement proposal, which provided a one-cent-an-hour wage cut.

The union has indicated, however, it will seek upward revision of pay scales in December.

Pollock Quits Liberal Ranks

Earl C. Pollock, former treasurer of the Victoria Liberal Association, today announced he has joined the Social Credit Party.

Mr. Pollock, well known local sportsman, has been inactive in the party for three years, but has been a Liberal all his life.

He is a past president of the Ward Two Liberal Association. Mr. Pollock was an unsuccessful candidate for the police commission twice, and city council once.

In making the change-over announcement, Mr. Pollock said he hasn't been able to see "eye to eye" on Liberal policies for considerable time.

He spent some time studying Social Credit in Alberta, and said he is convinced Social Credit has the answer to many of B.C.'s problems.

Mr. Pollock is manager of Cleveland Equipment Company. William Passmore, a salesman for Victoria Book and Stationery Ltd., and a friend of Mr. Pollock's, also announced he has joined Social Credit. Well known in local sporting circles, he has had no previous political affiliations.

Small Grower's Lament Held Justifiable

Complaints from some Saanich farmers that they are being forced to let plums and apples go to waste while Victorians pay high prices for local fruit in city stores, are admitted justifiable by the Provincial Department of Agriculture.

"But little can be done about the situation," officials said. "Farmers chiefly affected are those who only own a few fruit trees and have not the bulk to make a commercial proposition of growing."

On the other hand, the plums and apples on the market are mostly grown by commercial fruit growers whose livelihood depends on their fruit crops, he pointed out.

"Moreover," added the official, "there is nothing preventing Saanich farmers from selling their fruit or encouraging city people driving to the country to buy plums or apples."

Mayor Unmoved Under Pressure

Threat to Upset Robert House Sale No Cause for Worry at City Hall

Mayor Claude Harrison is not concerned whether the $41,000 offer for Prince Robert House is withdrawn or not.

Asked to comment on a report that the Victoria businessmen who offered to buy the property would withdraw should the city delay its decision on sale too long, the mayor said:

"The building is worth $41,000 at anytime."

"The city does not own a single lot that is not a good buy at present market prices."

"The mayor said the city should 'not be in a hurry' to sell its downtown property. He plans to call a special council meeting on the subject but no date has been set yet."

Dr. Hart Recalls Sight Of Old Pumper in Action

The old horse-drawn steam pumper now in the Market Building is a part of "old Victoria and should not be sold or given away to make a Hollywood holiday."

Dr. E. C. Hart, 1513 Laurel Lane, in these words protested the offer from a Los Angeles man to buy the pumper "if it is for sale." Dr. Hart wrote the city a letter today.

"I have many times watched the engine turn out and can see it yet," he wrote, "red-headed Pat Deasy in the driver's seat, urging his gray team to do more, when they were already doing all that they, or any other team, could do."

"Big George Lund standing on the rear step, hanging on by one hand with the other on the blower valve and about six feet of solid flame coming out of the stack. They might have been old fashioned but they didn't waste any time."

Dr. Hart suggested the city in the future might be able to afford a better resting place for the pumper. He felt it is seldom seen by children or visitors now.

Grant Okayed For C.N.I.B. New Building

The provincial cabinet has approved the making of a special grant to the Canadian National Institute for the Blind toward the construction of the new Victoria centre, Provincial Secretary W. D. Black said today.

The provincial secretary did not disclose the amount.

He made the statement in releasing the names of several organizations slated to get grants.

Mr. Black also announced the cabinet had approved the continuation of a policy whereby annual subsidies are made available to physicians who settle and practice in sparsely populated areas of B.C.

The policy of making government grants toward the construction of homes for elderly citizens is being studied, he said.

Warning Lamps' Removal Brings Two into Court

Two men were remanded in Saanich police court today on a charge arising out of the removal of red warning lamps from places considered to be of danger to motorists and pedestrians. The alleged offense occurred Sunday night.

Albert L. Caswell, 239 Regina, pleaded not guilty to a charge of theft of articles under $25 value, and George W. Allen, same address, pleaded guilty. They were remanded to the regular Thursday court by Magistrate A. I. Thomas.

Arrests were made by Sgt. Jack Hamilton.

Week-End Free Of All Save Minor Mishaps

Police of Victoria and District today reported a week-end clear of serious accidents on the highways.

City police reported medium damage was done to a car driven by George B. Simm, 1303 Gladstone, in collision with a double-parked car driven by Trevor Fisher, 128 Rendall, at Belville and Menzies early Sunday afternoon.

Damage was typed as medium by police when cars driven by Kerwin C. Johnson, 1035 Mears, and Sidney G. Gurney, 1270 Basil, were in collision early Saturday afternoon at Hillside and Quadra.

They Voyaged Through Whirlpools and Killer Whales

cluded stopovers at a number of San Juan and Gulf Islands.

BOAT IN BAG

This was accomplished in a collapsible kayak which, when dismantled, packs into a canvas bag. The bag fits easily into the trunk of a small car. There is also some spare canvas which fits around the paddlers in rough weather.

The boat's weight is 46 pounds. It is 16 feet long with a beam of only 20 inches.

Apart from the couple, the craft carried a cargo weighing 60 pounds. This included a tent, cooking utensils, food and blankets.

It was when the kayak was stored away in a car and the travelers were on their way to Victoria to catch the Vancouver steamer that they disclosed their adventure.

"My only concern was hitting a snag," said Mr. Lerwill, an aeronautical engineer. "A snag would have ripped the canvass and we would have gone to the bottom like a rock."

LAUGHS AT FEARS

Mrs. Lerwill, with a twinkle in her eyes, admitted there were more things than snags which caused her some worry.

"One day we headed for Friday Harbour," she said, "and a current swept us along at a great rate, making whirlpools in our path."

She said at some places where fast tidal currents met static waters, the sound was like that of "an express train."

"This was a sound that always gave me butterflies in the tummy," she said.

The couple described running into a school of killer whales which nosed about the boat in curiosity. They also saw porpoises, seals and schools of fish.

"But we may do it again," Mrs. Lerwill admitted.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Hard to Realize School Opens in Couple of Weeks

By PENNY SAVER

It may come as an awful jolt for you mothers to realize that school will be opening again within two weeks, and Johnny and Jane probably need new clothes.

It's a shock I must admit, but maybe it won't be too bad if I tell you about some children's clothes that are on sale. They won't be on sale for long, but if you act right away you'll get in on the bargains.

Back-to-school sweaters for boys in fine quality wool are selling at $2.95 and were regularly $3.98. In this group you can buy either a pullover or a cardigan.

Now here's an outstanding chance for you to get the kiddies their winter coats. A good line for both boys and girls can be bought at one-third to one-half off.

There are lots of other articles on sale for the school-age child, as you will find.

Mothers will want to take good care of these clothes for school, so to be sure they don't mess them up with after-school play you may be interested in the blue jeans that are selling at $1.95. Before you would have had to pay $2.90.

If you need any extra cotton dresses for your little girl, either for this season or planning for next, be sure to see the grand selection of street and sun dresses priced at $1.50.

They come in sizes 3 to 6X and were regularly priced at $2.50. A line of dresses very much the same as these are on sale for the teen-ager. The sun dresses sell for $1.95, regular $3.98, and the street dresses are $2.95, regular $4.98.

This is an unusual buy. Imported Mexican circle skirts with original patterns used to sell for $4.50, but if you buy one now you'll only have to pay $2.49. Come in sizes 12 to 16. Other circle skirts are $2.49, regular $3.98.

Now, Mother, we can't leave you out of all the fun. For yourself you will find English wool housecoats reduced from $19.95 to $13.95. Also, you'll see half-slips at $1.49 instead of $2.49.

For the man of the house there are striped T-shirts selling for $1 and nylon and wool socks now selling for $1.35, regular $1.69.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

A Daily Routine To Fight The Appearance of Aging

If you have any doubt that the shadow here and a line there, appearance of age is made up of many small changes, all you have to do to become aware of this is to watch a photographer retouch a negative. He will take out a shadow here and a line there, lighten circles under the eyes and make the chin clear cut with a stroke or two. He may also work a bit on darkening the brows and lashes. The spots the photographer usually must work on are the jawline, the line from nose to mouth and the area about the eyes, because these are the places in which age first shows.

These are results of fatigue, the weathering our skin takes, facial mannerisms, decreasing tone and lessening of the pad of fat between the skin of the face and the underlying muscles. We can do certain things to minimize or delay this aging process.

No mugging or frowning, fine nutrition and facial and neck exercises and daily lubrication will go a long way toward keeping the bloom on appearance.

Let us suppose that our photograph is full length. Then we run into another group of changes. One of the first things we notice is the difference in posture. If you had poor posture in earlier years the results in figure will now be pronounced. Humans have a tendency to droop as the years pass. There may be a dowager's hump, the head may protrude forward, the shoulders may be rounded, the head may have settled down into the neck, the spine may have shortened and the abdominal muscles may have become lax. All these small factors add up to a big difference between the current picture and the gallant carriage of youth.

Add to this overweight, which affects the contour of the face as well as the silhouette. Good posture is one thing we can take down the years with us. It can even be improved some after maturity, although prevention and early correction are easier.

A routine which gives daily care to the face and neck, corrective exercises for posture, and maintains correct body weight will discourage many of the signs of aging. The sum total is well worth working for.

If you have round shoulders and want help send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for the leaflet No. 7, "Don't Have Round Shoulders and Flat Bust—Reverse!" to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

TODAY'S RECIPE

CREAMED SALMON SALAD

One-lb. can salmon, yolks of 4 eggs, ¼ cup olive oil, 5 tbsps. lemon juice, tomato and cucumber slices, lettuce, 4 hard cooked eggs, salt, pepper, 1 pimento, 1 cup fresh cream.

Flake salmon, strain liquor. Separate the whites and yolks of 4 hard cooked eggs, chop fine, add this to the flaked salmon and put in a cool place. Beat the yolks of 4 eggs, and while beating add slowly the olive oil, 5 tbsps. lemon juice (or wine vinegar), season with salt and very little pepper. Cook in a double saucepan to the consistency of mayonnaise and leave to cool. When cool add finely chopped pimento, fresh cream, and mix all together.

Then add the cut-up salmon and the liquor. Arrange on a dish, or in scallop shells garnished with lettuce leaves, decorated with rounds of hard boiled eggs and slices of tomato or cucumber.

Medalists Perform

Miss Sylvia Scott and Master L. Galloway stole the hearts of all who saw them perform their adagio dance "Tom and Jerry" for the League of Roses recently in the Britannia Auditorium. They are pupils of the Vincent Visini School of the Dance, Vancouver; also medalists in the B.C. Dance Festival held recently. Other artists taking part were the Cornish wizard, Frank Merfield, magician; Mrs. M. Chapell, dialect monologues; Norma and Mary, saxophone and piano stylings; Mrs. A. Syrett, popular songs; Mr. Harry Jackson, Chinese comic opera and monologue; Don Leckie, tap dancing. Special guests were members of the Lancashire and Yorkshire Society from Los Angeles.

You Must Adjust to Physical Handicaps

By ELIZABETH B. HURLOCK, M.D.

People with physical handicaps are socially handicapped too. But it is possible to overcome this and that is what this young woman should learn to do:

(G.) "I am an attractive girl of 21. I am hard of hearing and have to wear a hearing aid. I have a hard time understanding when I carry on conversations in groups. I stay home all but one night a week, when I go dancing, and I never have dates like my friends do. Is it because of my handicap that the boys don't want me?"

(A.) To a certain extent, you are handicapped by your hearing problem. You can't close your eyes to this and try to find some other reason for your lack of popularity. You must face the problem squarely and try to make satisfactory adjustments to it.

It's hard not to be able to take part in a conversation as your friends do. It is also hard on the people you are with, especially the young men.

Dating at your age often leads to marriage. It is possible that many of the young men who might otherwise be interested in you are hesitant about becoming emotionally involved with a person who is hard of hearing. Not only is it hard for them to talk to you but there is also the question about marrying a person whose hearing is impaired.

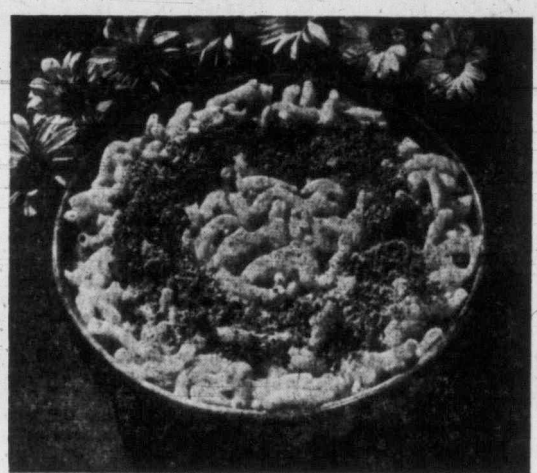

Accept the fact, with a minimum of bitterness and resentment, that you can't expect the same popularity that would be yours were it not for this handicap. Then try to build up close friendships with a few people who understand your handicap and you. This will mean far more as time passes than the fun of dates that you feel you are missing now. There is no reason why one of these friendships should not lead to a happy marriage as time goes on.

If you have a personal problem, write Elizabeth Hurlock in care of this newspaper.

How To Solve the Problem Of Leftovers Every Monday

Chicken every Sunday — leftovers every Monday.

We're sure your menus are not as rigidly routine as that, but we're certain, too, that many times you do have a spare drumstick or wing, the "pickin's" of which are still temptingly good.

So here's a way to stretch that leftover chicken around the family table. It's a recipe for chicken-macaroni casserole, one of those savory one-dish meals that eliminates the need for numerous side dishes.

Main support of the casserole is prepared macaroni in cheese sauce—the kind you buy in cans at your local grocery store or corner help-yourself. That means you not only can cut work down to a minimum, but you can eliminate the need for seasoning. And you know seasoning is just about the trickiest part of any cookery.

This canned macaroni is an expert blend of elbow macaroni, cooked to just the proper degree of softness, and smothered in a sauce of rich cream and nippy cheddar cheese. The sauce is simply but superbly seasoned, provides just the right amount of flavor contrast for the chicken. Just in case you want to file this recipe for repeated use—and we're sure you do—here it is in easy-to-follow form:

CHICKEN MACARONI CASSEROLE

Two 15-ounce cans macaroni in tomato sauce with cheese, one to one and one-half cups diced chicken, two tablespoons melted butter, one-quarter cup bread crumbs. Grease one-quart casserole. Alternate layers of macaroni with layers of chicken. Melt butter and mix with crumbs. Top casserole with buttered bread crumbs and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 35 minutes.

Attention across Canada is being focused on the healthful qualities of salads, their coolness, color, variety. There are salads for every occasion. You can serve them as appetizers, side dishes, main courses or desserts—depending on what you put in them. Besides fruits and vegetables you can use meat, dairy products, eggs or fish to make your salad more substantial.

Patricia Fuller Married In St. John's on Saturday

Saturday evening, before an altar of pure white gladioli, Patricia Elizabeth Fuller and Lawrence Alvin Haines repeated nuptial vows read by Canon George Biddle in St. John's Church. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. J. Fuller, 2056 Carrick Street, and the groom, the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Haines, Tofino.

Marking the pews were red carnations and white ribbons.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was radiant in a traditional gown of tulle over satin. Her bodice of lace over silk was styled with cap sleeves and sweetheart neckline. Satin covered blouses ended at the waist. Completing the bridal outfit were white elbow-length kid gloves, and a veil appliqued with satin flowers, which was caught by a shell-shaped satin coronet of dotted pearls and rhinestones.

Her single strand of pearls was a gift of the groom and she carried a bouquet of red roses.

Dresses of turquoise orlon with white lily design were worn with tulle mitts and turquoise

Juliet caps by Marilyn McLeod, maid of honor, and bridesmaids, Jane Line and Margaret Burns. They carried red carnations colonial bouquets. Flower girls, Elizabeth and Barbara Fuller, cousins of the bride, wore similarly styled gowns of turquoise orlon.

Best man was D. Slater, Whaletown, B.C., and ushers were Dennis Arthur, Jim Brule, Terrance McLeod and Robert Caldwell.

As the couple signed the register, Stanley Martin sang "The Lord's Prayer," accompanied by Organist F. Chubb.

In St. John's Memorial Hall, the newlyweds cut a three-tier cake, embedded in tulle and topped with white shoe and twin wedding rings. On either side of the cake were white candles set in silver candlesticks, a gift of Thunderbird Chapter, I.O.D.E. Gerald Few proposed the toast.

Mrs. Haines chose a grey-blue three-piece suit with white accessories and a pink carnation corsage for a honeymoon trip to Long Beach, Calif. The couple will live in Ramsay Arm, B.C.

Gay Summer Floral Setting For Recent Nuptial Service

Wilkinson Road United Church was the scene Saturday afternoon of the wedding ceremony which united Joyce Elizabeth "Liesle" Layritz and Edwin Landon Jakeman, in marriage.

Rev. Moir A. J. Waters officiated for the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Layritz, Wilkinson Road, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Jakeman, Earl Grey Avenue.

Large clusters of pink and white gladioli, gypsophila, hydrangea and roses were used to decorate the church. Mr. E. E. Boorman, church organist, played traditional music and during the signing of the register Miss Marjory Sturgeon sang "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the fair-haired bride was a picture wearing an ice-blue floor-length gown of nylon net with lace insets over satin, a strapless bodice and a small lace cape. She wore a garland of pink rosebuds in her hair and carried a shower bouquet of rapture roses and stephanotis. For something old she carried an heirloom lace handkerchief belonging to her grandmother.

Mrs. Paul Bolton as matron of honor wore mauve and carried a bouquet of pink gladioli. Miss Violet Marston attended as bridesmaid wearing pink and carried a bouquet of mauve gladioli. Their ballerina-length gowns were styled alike of nylon net over tulle with brocaded bodices and bandeaus of contrasting flowers were in their hair. Little Beth Squance, as flower girl, wore white organdy over pink satin, with a bandeau of fresh flowers in her hair and carried a basket of rose petals to scatter on the bride's pathway. Mr. Edward McGartland, brother of the groom, was best man. Mr. R. Livsey and Mr. J. L. Tol ushered.

For a reception in the Mirror Room of the Monterey, parents of the couple assisted in receiving the guests. Mrs. Layritz wore a sandalwood gown with black accessories and a pink rosebud corsage; Mrs. Jakeman's ensemble was trimmed with red and her corsage was of red roses.

Y.W.C.A. ACTIVITIES

Girls' Y-teen training camp will be held at Sunship Camp, Sooke, from August 22 to 29. Girls attending the camp go with a dual purpose . . . to learn and to have fun! They will run the camp as a Y-teen club—meetings, house parties, speakers, sports and ceremonies all add up to a wonderful week of new experiences.

Sunday of that week will be visitors' day for parents and friends at the camp. Guest speakers will also visit the camp during the week, including Miss Christina Gardiner, Y.W.C.A. executive director (Miss Gardiner will be speaker for the worship service Sunday morning), Miss Mae Brown, Y.W.C.A. resident secretary and dietitian, who will speak to the girls about hints for young hostesses; also members of the Y.W.C.A. program committee will be down to join in the fun during one of the swimming periods. It is expected Miss Jean Kerr (now attending Y.W.C.A. national assembly in Whitby, Ont.) will be back in time to give the girls first-hand information about Y news.

Y-teen members or those hoping to be one, should register as soon as possible for camp with Kay Burt-Smith, camp director, G 7179.

A September Wedding Day

The engagement is announced of Joan, elder daughter of Lt. Col. E. W. Pope, C.M.G., and Mrs. Pope, 1911 Woodley Road, and granddaughter of the late Sir Joseph and Lady Pope, to Lieut. Michael Considine, R.C.N., son of Major and Mrs. F. A. Considine of Maple Bay, V.I. The wedding will take place on September 22, at Our Lady of Lourdes Church, Oak Bay.

To Honor Ottawa Visitors

Mrs. W. H. Wilson was a tea-hour hostess Sunday afternoon at her Howe Street home to honor her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Wardroper who came from Ottawa by plane recently for a three-week vacation here. Afternoon tea was served from a table centred with an arrangement of glowing red gladioli in a crystal holder. Mrs. Wilson presided at the urns and Miss Marnie Wilson assisted her mother in receiving and serving the guests.

Fiftieth Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Slater, Shoreacres Road, Sidney, V.I., were at home to relatives and their many friends last Wednesday when they celebrated their golden wedding anniversary. Relatives gathered for the occasion included three sons and their families; William of Parksville, V.I.; Edward of Seattle, Wash.; David of Victoria. Also Mrs. Annie Slater, widow of their second son, Jonathan, and her two children; Mr. Slater's sister, Mrs. Sarah Ringdahl, Hanna, Alta., and his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Cuthbert Slater of Quebec City. A beautiful two-tier wedding cake, decorated with the flowers and leaves of the original wedding cake, centred the tea table. Later members of the family gathered for dinner at the Beacon Cafe, Sidney, V.I. Mr. and Mrs. Slater lived for many years at 1024 Pakington Street, Victoria, B.C., before going to Sidney three years ago.

Mr. W. T. Cook, British Columbia superintendent of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, and Mrs. Cook, returned to their home in Vancouver today. They came to Victoria to attend the summer ball at Government House last Friday evening.

In Victoria for the wedding of Patricia Fuller to Lawrence Haines on Saturday evening were Mrs. L. A. E. Haines, New Westminster, Mrs. T. Jenkins, Vancouver, Mrs. L. Lindsell, Joco, Mr. and Mrs. S. Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. W. Petrie, Campbell River, Mr. and Mrs. E. Ellingsen, Manson's Landing, Mrs. E. Kilanyi, New York, Mr. and Mrs. W. Matthews, Von Donop Creek.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding Saturday evening of Bernice Sarah Lerik and Reinhard Paul Ehrlich were Mr. and Mrs. G. Ehrlich with Robert, Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. James Smith, Seattle; Mrs. D. Robertson, Dawson City; Mr. Dick Saunders and Mr. L. Chisholm, Elsa, Yukon Territory; Mr. and Mrs. Ray Nobbs, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Wright, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Colquhoun, Miss D. Guelpha, Dr. and Mrs. W. Joiner, Mr. and Mrs. K. L. M. Dodd and Mr. and Mrs. M. Ross.

Miss Anita Green was honored recently at a shower given by Mrs. G. G. Miller, 1860 Crescent Road. A corsage of roses and sweet peas in shades of pink was presented to the guest of honor and corsages of pink carnations and sweet peas were presented to Mrs. W. Green, her mother; Mrs. F. D'Argis, mother of the groom-elect, and Mrs. F. Green, grandmother of the bride-elect. Gifts were concealed in a decorated wagon. Refreshments were served buffet style and the table was centred with a low bowl of carnations and sweet peas in shades of pink. Guests attending were Mesdames R. Bugslag, J. Dand, G. Foster, D. Jones, G. Fish, A. Bugslag, J. Easton, M. Sinclair, P. Stewart, E. Gendron, M. MacDonald, R. Victorians Study High in Rocky Mountains

Summer courses ended more than a week ago at Banff School of Fine Arts where these students from Victoria, seen on the steps of the school auditorium were taking special studies. Standing at back, Gwen Bateman, who took a course in leathercraft; at left, Gerald Guest, drama student; back row, seated, Mary Bell, ballet; Margaret Martin, drama and Margaret McCurrach, choral leadership; front, Marie Maggiora, ballet and rhythmic; Avis Walton, radio-play writing; Ferne Rath, piano, and just behind her, Margaret Longridge who was studying painting technique under Jan Zeek, also of Victoria. Miss Longridge did an abstract in oils of Vermillion Lake near Banff that has been purchased for the permanent collection of the school. Other Victorians at the school were David Asbell, Sybil Boston, Dorothy-Mae Charles, Malcolm Hamilton, Marjorie Hastings, Edward Young, Mrs. Jan Zach and Mr. and Mrs. Roberto Wood. The school is an extension of the University of Alberta, and located in one of the most famous beauty spots in the world. Courses cover such widely diversified arts and crafts as weaving, ceramics, photography, stagecraft, writing solo and group music. (Photo by Rogers.)

Mainland and Up-Island visitors in Victoria for the wedding of Joy Mahon and Charles Scott were Mr. and Mrs. William and Mrs. McKnight and family, Nanaimo.

Double Ring Ceremony Unites Couple in Royal Oak Church

Joy Eva Mahon and Charles Thomas Scott were married on Saturday evening in a double ring ceremony conducted by Rev. N. J. Godkin in St. Michael's and All-Angels Church. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Mahon, "Craig Park Orchard," Royal Oak and the groom, the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Scott, Alderley Road.

Flowers in brilliant and pastel summer shades formed a lovely frame for the bride, who was gowned in ivory slipper satin, with long, pointed sleeves, a molded and bouffant skirt. Her jade pendant and gold chain, which was a christening gift, were set off by a shimmering silver beaded tiara and floor-length embroidered veil.

Complementing the pure ivory was a cascade bouquet of red and white roses.

She was given in marriage by her father. The bride's gift to the groom was a wrist watch and the groom's to the bride, a full cameo ring.

Bridesmaids Shirley Robinson and Dorothy Scott were gowned alike in ballerina-length dresses of yellow and blue net over taffeta, respectively. Floral head-dresses matched their colonial bouquets. Best man was Owne Moore, H.M.C.S. Malahat and ushers were Bud Hillyer, H.M.C.S. Malahat and Ken Curl.

The newlyweds received approximately 80 guests at a reception at "Craig Park Orchard." William Mahon, the bride's uncle, proposed the toast. Mrs. Scott chose a light brown check two-piece suit, with pink and white accessories, for a honeymoon trip to Ponoka, Alta., via the United States and Banff. The couple will live at 1349 Grant Street.

Newlyweds Honeymooning in Hawaii Before Making Home in the Yukon

Mr. and Mrs. Reinhard Paul Ehrlich, who were married in St. John's Anglican Church Saturday evening are honeymooning in the Hawaiian Islands before where they will make their home.

Canon George Biddle officiated for the former Bernice Sarah Lerik, only daughter of Mrs. Emily Lerik, Pandora Avenue, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ehrlich, Toronto, Ont.

The church was decorated with white and pink gladioli. F. Chubb played organ music, and during the signing of the register Mrs. Elsie Edwards sang "O Perfect Love."

Given in marriage by her uncle, Ray Nobbs, Vancouver, the bride was radiant in a ballerina-length gown of pale pink nylon marquisette with lace insertions on skirt and at the neckline with matching elbow-length lace gauntlets. A coronet of pink roses and heather held her pink shoulder-length veil and she carried a colonial bouquet of roses and heather.

A single strand pearl necklace with earrings was worn, and for something old, the bride wore the groom's grandmother's engagement ring of sapphire and diamonds, a gift to the bride from the groom's family.

A pale blue gown styled the same as the bride's was worn by her only attendant, Miss Lillian Curtis, who carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations, pink sweet peas and centred with a rose. A matching coronet and a pendant, gift of the bride, completed her ensemble.

Best man was the groom's brother, Robert Ehrlich, Toronto, and ushers were Vincent Lerik and Aubrey Nobbs.

Summer flowers decorated Loucheed's for the reception. White tulle swathed the three-tier wedding cake centring the table, which was decorated with pink sweet peas and lighted candles. Toast was proposed by James Smith, Seattle.

For flying to Hawaii the bride wore a pink gabardine suit, navy topcoat and white accessories.

Many Resolutions To Be Discussed At Triennial

OTTAWA, Aug. 18 (CP)—The Canadian Federation of University Women, which opened its triennial meeting here today, is expected to urge the federal government to set up a council to encourage Canadian arts and letters and the development of research and study in the humanities and social sciences.

A resolution dealing with that subject will come before the convention.

It notes that the Royal Commission on Arts, Letters and Sciences recommended establishment of such a council and resolves that the federation "urge the government of Canada to set up a Canadian council on the principles and for the purpose recommended by the Royal Commission."

One controversial subject likely to come before the convention is another resolution urging the government "through the Prime Minister to retain the words 'Dominion' and 'Royal' in the Canadian official vocabulary."

At its last convention, the federation approved a similar resolution.

The resolution originated in the university women's club of Peterborough, Ont.

Another resolution notes criticism of a series of programs on the C.B.C. given by distinguished psychiatrists and scientists including Bertrand Russell and Dr. Brock Chisholm, secretary-general of the world health organization.

Four Victoria Women Travel Under Exchange

Four Victoria teachers are now in the United Kingdom, ready to take over British classes when the fall school term opens. J. F. K. English, municipal inspector of schools said today. They are Miss Catherine Shaw who was at Quadra last year;

Miss Frances Burne, Willows; Miss Betty Miles, Willows; and Miss Bertha Haigh, attached to no specific school during the past term.

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Aug. 18 (Sunday) (AP).—San Diego Union in a series of articles beginning Sunday discloses how one of its reporters, posing as a European Communist, has twice been smuggled into the United States from Mexico in recent weeks.

The reporter, Gene Fuson, lived with wetbacks and smugglers during his three-month investigation of the alien smuggling racket. He said he paid only $20 to obtain fraudulent birth and border crossing permits in Tijuana, Mex.

Fuson said at the bottom of his investigation he found the California underground, which he termed a multi-million-dollar alien smuggling racket.

"They handle all comers," Fuson says. "Even after I told them I was a Czech Communist who had reached Tijuana via South America. I paid my passage and they did the rest. The price was $40."

Fuson, who spoke Spanish throughout his investigation, conducted his masquerade so effectively that once the U.S. border patrol captured him, 30 miles north of the border and "deported" him with 23 real aliens to Mexico.

He is a very fine man and he is going to win," Miss Truman told reporters after her arrival here Sunday from Copenhagen.

Before she left Denmark, Miss Truman also brushed off talk of romance with Stevenson as "rumor" and added that "there will be no wedding in the White House this term."

She added—"of course I am prejudiced, I happen to be a Democrat."

Youth Survives Fall of 400 Feet

WENATCHEE, Wash. (BUP)—An 18-year-old Wenatchee, Wash. youth, Fred Law, has miraculously survived a 400-foot fall down a sheer, rocky cliff. Law and his brother Gene stopped on a highway to admire the view and Fred fell. He suffered a fractured skull and broken pelvis, as well as bruises and cuts. However, hospital attendants in Wenatchee say his condition is comparatively good. A doctor was lowered to the stricken boy and then the victim was derricked back to the highway in a stretcher hooked to a long boom.

Thieves took Saturday receipts, heaviest of the week, from the Safeway store in Chilliwack. No one apparently heard the blast or saw the men in the store.

Papers at Widow's Door Close to Time of Death

VANCOUVER, Aug. 18 (CP)—Unopened newspapers at the front door fixed the time of death of a 65-year-old widow at least nine days before the discovery of her body Sunday.

Stirring Drama

Lawrence Olivier, Jennifer Jones and Eddie Albert are the protagonists of an unusual romantic triangle in William Wyler's "Carrie," a frank and stirring Paramount screen drama now showing at the Royal Theatre.

U.S. Family Spends $4,700

Family Savings, Inheritances Tapped To Bridge Gap Between Income, Outgo

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18 (UP)—The United States government told Americans today that if their families spend more than they make, don't worry—they're average.

The government's bureau of labor statistics has just completed a study of spending habits of 10,813 families in 91 big, middle-sized and little cities. The figures, for the year 1950, give this picture of the average city family:

It had $4,300 left over to spend, after forking over about 7 per cent of its original income to the tax collector.

It actually spent about $4,700. The $400 gap between income and outgo was bridged by piling up debts, tapping the family savings, and in some cases by windfalls, such as inheritances, gifts and the like.

The way the money was spent differed somewhat from city to city, but the pattern boiled down to about 30 per cent for food and alcoholic beverages; 15 per cent for housing and utilities; 11 per cent for major purchases such as autos, TV sets and household appliances; about 12 per cent for clothing; 5 per cent for medical care; 6 per cent for recreation, reading and education; 4.5 per cent for insurance premiums; and 4 per cent for gifts and contributions. The rest went to the old catchall, "miscellaneous."

BIG AND SMALL

The bureau made the survey so that its famous cost-of-living index henceforth can reflect the spending habits of small and medium-sized towns. Previously it has been based on big-city spending habits.

Among other things the index is used to figure changes in wages due union members with contracts linking their wages to the cost of living.

Wage earners and clerical workers had the hardest time with their budgets. Families in this category had an average of $3,900 left after taxes in 1950. They dug into savings or went deeper into debt, proportionately more than other city folk.

The 91 cities surveyed ranged in size from New York City to communities like Madill, Okla., with a population of about 2,500.

KAISER CHARGES MURDER ATTEMPT

Industrialist's Two Speedboats Tampered With Before Cup Races

TAHOE CITY, Calif., Aug. 18 (AP)—Industrialist Henry J. Kaiser said Sunday someone tried to kill him by sabotaging two speedboats he had entered in Lake Tahoe.

The sabotage was discovered half an hour before race time. "I'm sure it was an attempt on my life, one of the most diabolical things I've ever seen," Kaiser said. "Definitely this is murder."

The industrialist said he did not know who might be responsible, but suspected "the same people who have tried to destroy everything I've tried to build." He did not amplify his remark.

Hot Metal had been hacked half-way through, and the carburetor blower had been stuffed with rags, nuts and bolts. Five gallons of gasoline had been poured into the runabout boat, soaking the hull and filling the bilge.

"Either sabotage could have killed somebody," Kaiser said.

Ararat Search Of Noah's Ark Reveals No Trace

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Aug. 18 (AP).—A French expedition battled its way to the summit of Mt. Ararat of Old Testament fame, the Anatolia news agency said Saturday, but found not a trace of Noah's Ark—not even a pair of animal tracks.

The expedition, led by polar explorer Jean de Riquier, hoisted the French flag atop the rugged peak after climbing through snow, rain and heavy winds.

An American expedition led by Dr. Aaron Smith, a retired missionary from Greensboro, N.C., tried fruitlessly to find old Noah's fabulous boat in 1949.

Turkey's big Soviet neighbor charged that neither group really was looking for the ark but just wanted to peer down at Russian defenses on the other side of the mountain.

STEWART & HUDSON
HOME BUILDERS' HEADQUARTERSDON'T
WAIT FOR WINTER

Be ready to insulate now and save valuable dollars in fuel costs to addition in winter. Buy from the largest selection in town.

Zenith Loose Fill Insulation! Bag covers 75 square feet. Only $1.39. Gyproc Hand Pouring Wool, granulated, easy use, glass wool. $1.90. Gyproc Wool Batts, Carlon, 60 square feet. $2.90. Fiberglass Home Insulation, Carlon, 25 square feet. $4.97. Low cost insulation—use it in walls or ceilings of new buildings or even your present home. Guaranteed. Rolls of 250 square feet cost only $9.95.

In addition, we carry insulation roll blankets and insulation in 2" and 4" thicknesses. Do the job yourself any evening or week end. Bidding is permanent. We supply complete insured applicators for a small extra charge. Free on the job estimates.

HAVE YOU SEEN

The new Sidney Dur-O-Shake insulated siding! This siding is faced with deep natural mineral granules in colors that never fade—sparks or embers will not ignite. Better still, Sidney Dur-O-Shake is permanently weatherproof—amphibol coated base defies rain, snow, wind and fire. Every day more comfortable with added fuel saving. Price per 100 square foot, $23.90. Free estimates on your job and, of course, every monthly payment.

Dieppe Landing Commemorated

Canadian Veterans, R.C.A.F. Share

BRIGHTON, Eng., Aug. 18 (Reuters)—R.C.A.F. Sabre jet fighters dipped in salute over Brighton Sunday to commemorate the 1942 Canadian-led raid on Dieppe, France.

Two Americans Survive Air Crash in B.C.

VANCOUVER, B.C., Aug. 18—

Two Americans, injured when their light plane crashed at Horseshoe Lake in Central British Columbia Sunday, were flown to hospital at Vancouver, Wash.

R.C.A.F. said the pilot, a Dr. Skinner of Longview, Wash., and a Mr. Smith his passenger, were picked up by a search and rescue canoe and flown here.

A U.S. Coast Guard plane picked them up here.

Dr. Skinner suffered a broken leg and a possible fractured back. The injuries of Mr. Smith are not known.

They were sent to the American hospital at their own request.

Details of the crash are scarce, but it is thought the plane crashed just after taking off in a fog. When about 15 feet off the water the plane apparently turned and crashed into a hill.

ATHLETE'S FOOT

Stringent laboratory tests show that T.C.P., the new 4-way-action Antiseptic, will inhibit growth of the fungi which is responsible for Athlete's Foot. T.C.P. even diluted with 100 parts water, is effective against the growth of these organisms. That is why T.C.P. used straight from the bottle has such a rapid and positive action. Simply dab on T.C.P. 2 to 4 times daily. It will soothe and help quickly to relieve irritation, dry up existing "blisters" between the toes and help promote clean, rapid healing. This is just one of the many uses for this new 4-way-action antiseptic. T.C.P. with full directions is now available at all drug stores.

Canadian war veterans, among them survivors of the raid, marched through the town to a wreath-laying ceremony at the peace statue.

The Canadians who attacked the German-held port were billeted in and around this seaside resort and set sail from Newhaven, near here, Aug. 19, 1942.

A contingent from the Canadian Veterans' Association of the United Kingdom—Canadian ex-servicemen of the two World Wars now resident here—attended a memorial service.

Four Sabre jets of 439th Sabre Squadron, 1st Fighter Wing, R.C.A.F., based at North Luffenham, England, flew over the town and dipped in salute. They were led by FO. Bill Cheesman of Winnipeg, a war veteran.

SAVED LIVES
At a service on the boundary of Brighton and Hove, wreaths placed at the Peace statue, Rev. V. K. Lippitt, Vicar of Hove, said the Dieppe raid enabled the Normandy invasion to be carried out at a cost in blood less than even the most optimistic had hoped.

"The sacrifice made by those brave men bore fruit and here or across the sea in Canada it may be some comfort to the homes where there is no father, as there ought to be, and no son, as there might have been," he said.

The salute at the march-past was taken by J. S. P. Armstrong, agent-general for Ontario. Brig. R. W. Moncel, army member of the Canadian Joint Staff in London, represented the Canadian High Commissioner, Norman Robertson. Col. C. H. Cook and Group Capt. James Harvey represented Maj.-Gen. J. D. B. Smith, chairman of the Canadian Joint Staff in London.

Twelve Sabre jets from the R.C.A.F. 410 Cougar Squadron, also based in Britain, will fly over Dieppe Tuesday for another ceremony. A group of Dieppe survivors flown across the Atlantic by the R.C.A.F. will attend the port ceremony.

The Cougar Squadron jets will be led by Sqdn. Ldr. Douglas Warren, from Ponoka, Alta., a veteran of the Dieppe raid who shot down a German plane while flying with the R.A.F. in the 1942 attack.

Los Angeles of the Pacific Coast League has signed Stan Hack as manager for another year.

Duncan Rink Going Ahead Fast

Rushing to complete Cowichan Co-operative Curling Rink by early October, workmen are now in the process of making 180 beams to bear Quonset-type roof.

Left to right are H. L. Kellogg, sub-federer; Lou Michaud, Bill Young, Ernie Lederer and J. R. Saterpakka. Rink will provide five sheets of ice for curling.

FRENCH RIVIERA SWEEP BY FIRES, ARMS BLAST

ANTIBES, France, Aug. 18 (AP)—

The gay and glamorous French Riviera was swept by forest fires yesterday which were finally brought under control after hundreds had evacuated their homes. The flames exploded several government munition dumps concealed in the woods.

The fires, of undetermined origin, raced through the pine forests which cover the rocky slopes rising from the Mediterranean. Firemen from the whole coast were mobilized.

U.S. Railroad Unions Reject 'Package' Deal

NEW YORK, Aug. 18 (AP)—

Four railroad brotherhoods threatening to go on strike on the eastern lines of the New York Central Railroad rejected Sunday a mediators' settlement plan. The mediators' proposal had been accepted earlier by the railroad.

The mediators promptly asked both sides to maintain a temporary "status quo"—meaning, they said, that they assumed by this request that no strike would be called.

The mediators asked the company and the unions to meet with them Tuesday in Washington.

The railroad announced acceptance of the "package" settlement proposal as its representatives came out of a meeting with mediators.

Later the mediators met briefly with the union side. Francis J. O'Neill Jr., chairman of the mediation board, said the unions made their rejection 15 minutes after the meeting began.

Union bargainers then walked out.

Alberta's New Catholic Bishop Is Consecrated

STE. ANNE DE BEAUPRE, Que., Aug. 18 (BUP)—The Most Rev. Philippe Lussier ruled officially as Bishop of St. Paul, Alta., today after becoming the first bishop to be consecrated in the St. Anne's shrine.

The Most Rev. Ildebrando Antonutti, Apostolic Delegate to Canada, came here from Ottawa to help officiate at the ceremony which was attended by several archbishops and bishops, representatives of the federal and provincial governments and thousands of pilgrims and tourists.

The ritual took place in the Basilica, one of Quebec's biggest tourist attractions and a place where millions of pilgrims have flocked since the first shrine was built on the shores of the St. Lawrence River 300 years ago by French sailors.

Cowichan Curling Rink Well Ahead of Schedule

Two Extra Shifts Starting Work This Week; Club Expects Ice for Skaters in October

DUNCAN, Aug. 18—Construction is ahead of schedule on the Cowichan Co-Op Curling Club rink on James Street, but Larry Marshall, president, has announced the work will be speeded up still more by putting on afternoon and evening shifts commencing Tuesday.

At the same time he has issued an urgent appeal for volunteers to assist with the work.

"Anyone with a hammer, willing to swing it," he said, "will be heartily welcomed."

The 80 by 206-foot building will be ready for the first ice early in October. Six months of curling will follow, on five sheets of ice, and then one month of ice skating to close the season.

The skating surface will be 70 by 145 feet.

But if present plans mature, the curling and ice season will not close the activities of the new plant.

Mr. Marshall said the association plans to install a floor for summer use so that conventions, concerts and community efforts may be accommodated.

Workers are busy now constructing 180 curved beams which will frame the building. Each frame will be one-half of a full truss and there will be 90 of them, spaced two feet apart.

Overall structural length of the building will be 206 feet. It will be 78 feet wide, and in the front end will be a clubroom, coffee room, rest room and lockers, with a balcony erected on top of this section for spectators.

The freezing unit will be in a 14-foot section at the rear of the building.

Two Die When Plane Crashes on Airstrip

TROUT LAKE, Wash., Aug. 18 (AP)—A light plane attempting a landing near here stalled and crashed Sunday, killing the pilot and a passenger.

The victims were Chet Bolter, the pilot, and Lt. Donald L. Warren, 30, a Portland navy reserve officer.

Witnesses said the pilot pulled the nose of the plane up as he was coming in for a landing. The plane stalled 100 feet up.

Race horse owner and trainer J. D. Stewart, Vancouver, has been fined $100 and suspended for the balance of the Edmonton meeting for making false accusations against a jockey.

100-Mile Wind As Tornado Hits Korea

Czech Ship Missing With 83 Aboard

SEOUL, Korea, Aug. 18 (AP)—The centre of a typhoon—with winds up to 100 miles an hour—today hit Korea's west coast at Kunsan, 80 miles south of Seoul, and roared on across this peninsula toward the Sea of Japan.

The ship-wrecking storm brought torrential rains to all of South Korea. Four to five inches of rain were predicted for the battlefront tonight.

Power of the storm decreased as it passed overland. The weather expert said it may pick up power when it hits the Sea of Japan and swerves toward Hokkaido, northernmost island of Japan.

One ship was wrecked and another overdue.

Americans used an oil drum raft Sunday to rescue 40 of 43 passengers and crew aboard the Japanese motor vessel Tokushin Maru. The ship broke up on rocks near the island of Miyako, about 160 miles south of Okinawa. A woman and her two small children were lost.

Six American planes and a U.S. destroyer searched for the Czech ship Republika with 83 persons aboard. The vessel was reported in distress about 250 miles east of Shanghai.

The distress signal was relayed by a Chinese Communist coastal station at Shanghai. The broadcast reported that Japanese and British steamers were en route to the scene.

Grave Diggers Keep Digging, Discuss Wages

VANCOUVER, Aug. 18 (BUP)—

Canada's first scheduled strike of gravediggers failed to come off today when workers at the Ocean View Burial Park decided to negotiate further with operators of the park.

Twenty-two members of the cemetery workers' section of the Building Laborers' Union had planned to stop digging graves this morning over a wage dispute.

They originally asked for a 35-cent-hourly raise but scaled it down after a conciliation board recommended 18 cents. The company's offer was not disclosed.

ISLAND DIGEST

CHEMAINUS, Aug. 18—A thief who gained entry to the Green Lantern Hotel during the early morning hours of Saturday escaped with $162.50 in small bills and change.

The theft was reported to police by Louis Tonach, proprietor of the establishment. Tonach said the thief entered and escaped through a rear window.

COURTENAY, Aug. 18—Two British seamen from the cruiser Sheffield are recovering here from injuries received last week when the car in which they were driving overturned on the Cumberland Road.

The two seamen are Vernon Jackson, of Leeds, Yorkshire, and Gerald Sylvester, of Digby, Lancashire. They were passengers in a car driven by John Garvey, of Merville, who received only minor injuries.

PARKSVILLE, Aug. 18—The R.C.M.P. now has a man-and-dog search team available on the island to be used in wild country wherever people are reported lost.

Constable Ian Hall and his German shepherd, Rip, have completed training courses in Alberta and Nova Scotia. They will operate out of Parksville from now on.

PARKSVILLE, Aug. 18—Parksville's new movie theatre may be ready by Sept. 15, it has been revealed by Timbersteel Structures Ltd., builders of the amusement house.

The theatre, situated beside the Island Highway, opposite the Community Park, is being financed by Parkville Holdings Ltd., a company recently formed by local residents.

DUNCAN, Aug. 18—Damage estimate for the fire which broke out last Friday night in the Cowichan Co-Op Creamery has been set at $7,000.

Fifty tons of hay and 40 tons of peat moss were lost in the blaze. Believed to have started by spontaneous combustion in the hay, the fire was first noticed at 9.15 p.m. Firemen, working under the direction of Chief R. A. McDonald, fought till midnight quelling the blaze and then worked through until morning, removing the charred bales as a precaution against a new outbreak.

Alert Bay Logger Flown to Hospital

VANCOUVER, (BUP).—An Alert Bay logger, Paul Lecompt, was reported in "fair" condition in a Vancouver hospital today after a Sunday morning accident and mercy flight.

Lecompt was said to have been hurt when a donkey engine exploded near him. B.C. Airlines made the flight. The logger was still unconscious at last word.

Judge Indicates
Bound by Appeal
Court Decision

VANCOUVER, Aug. 18 (CP)—The Vancouver-Burrard recount was adjourned by Judge McGeer until Wednesday morning in County Court today.

The adjournment was to enable C.C.F. counsel to consider their position after the judge indicated that he was bound by the recent court of appeal judgment in the Vancouver-Point Grey election case.

The judge also expressed the opinion that the Elections Act had not been complied with for Vancouver-Burrard.

Robert M. McGinn, returning officer, was recalled just before adjournment and admitted that he had rejected some ballots on the final count but had not endorsed the ballots as required by the Elections Act.

The judge stated that section 119, subsection 7 of the Elections Act had not apparently been complied with.

He pointed out that the Court of Appeal in the Vancouver-Point Grey election appeal, refused to count the ballots after finding that the act had not been carried with respect to receiving, packaging and endorsing the ballots by the returning officer.

MAKES NO SENSE

"I can see, as the Court of Appeal saw, the extreme difficulty of compliance with the act," said Judge McGeer. "The act does not make very much sense to me; but I can not make sense out of something that does not make sense."

Mr. McGinn told the court there were 256 polls in his riding and that the count which he conducted was limited to ballots other than the first preference and rejected ballots.

These ballots were kept in their original packages. But the ballots which Mr. McGinn counted were not returned to their original envelopes.

His Honor called attention to section 128 of the act, which required the returning officer on completion of the final count to seal up the ballots which he counted and those which he rejected.

"Are the ballots in the original envelopes which you received from the deputy returning officer," asked His Honor.

Mr. McGinn: "No."

Rescued . . . DOUGLAS DE WOLFE

Rescuer . . . WILLIAM SPEDDING

Bus Driver in Rescue
Role for Second Time

For the second time in less than two years 40-year-old William Spedding, 2626 Avebury Avenue, has saved Victoria youths from drowning in Victoria and district lakes.

Mr. Spedding, a B.C. Electric Co. bus driver, on Saturday afternoon saved the life of 13-year-old Douglas DeWolfe, 1018

Balmoral, after the lad had gone down for the third time in Elk Lake waters.

On Jan. 28, 1951, the bus driver—who was not identified at the time by police—took part in the rescue of several ice-skating boys who plunged through the ice of Goodacre Lake, Beacon Hill Park.

Charles O'Sullivan, 16, was drowned.

"I feel swell now—but I know I had a close shave with death," said young Douglas to the Times this morning while being pictured in his bed at Royal Jubilee Hospital. He was released to return home this afternoon.

Douglas was out about 50 feet from shore playing with inflated inner tubes near the East Saanich Road picnic grounds, with his brothers, Lloyd and Carl, when the trouble occurred. There were also several other boys around at the time.

"Somebody pushed me away from the inner tube and that's all I remember for a long while," said the DeWolfe boy.

"We heard a lot of yells going on in that vicinity so Bill (Mr. Spedding) swam over and somebody told him that Douglas had gone down for the third time," said Mrs. Anne Spedding. She said Bill looked under water, saw the boy lying on the bottom and immediately dived and brought him up.

"Artificial respiration was used to bring the near-drowned boy around. In the meantime someone telephoned the Saanich Fire Department and resuscitator crew arrived in charge of Lieut. Hector McNeill and worked on the lad until he had revived sufficiently to be rushed to Jubilee Hospital.

"We are so grateful to Mr. Spedding. I hope he will get some recognition for his brave act. But we also will ask him to come to our home to receive a special gift for his courageous and keen presence of mind," said the grateful Mrs. DeWolfe. Mr. DeWolfe is an employee of H.M.C. Dockyard.

Banks Start
Discounting
U.S. Silver

7% Average Charge
On Larger Coins
Will Be Made

By BURKE CAHILL
Times Business Editor

Victoria banks have started discounting United States' larger silver coins . . . and the discount will average about 7 per cent on the dollar.

The flow of American coins here has become so large, bank managers report, that they have been forced to mark down the larger United States silver according to the cost of shipping it south of the line.

"We had been merely taking in the U.S. coins and passing them out again," one bank manager said today, "but now many of our customers are complaining that they are getting too much American silver in rolls of change from the bank."

SHIPPED TO SEATTLE

Since bank customers are balking at the U.S. coins, local bankers explain, the banks have to ship the silver to Seattle.

The cost of packaging and shipping silver is much more than for cheques or bills, the bank managers point out, and so the discount on silver will have to be larger.

Local banks are currently marking down United States paper money according to daily quotations in the foreign exchange market reported by the Bank of Canada. In the case of say they have to work out their silver, however, the local banks own discount.

So far, smaller United States coins such as dimes and nickels are still being accepted by bank customers, the managers said. Consequently, not all the American silver has to be shipped out.

MISSING MAINLAND MAN
REGAINS MEMORY HERE

A 28-year-old amnesia victim, who had been missing from his North Vancouver home since last Wednesday, found himself Sunday on the beach in front of Royal Roads College.

R.C.M.P. said the missing man, Arthur Sewell, got in touch with police Sunday night and is now waiting for his mother to come here and take him home.

He suffered a minor head injury when he slipped in a bathtub at his home.

Police said today he could recall nothing of his trip over here but remembered all events after Sunday morning. They said he did not seem to be suffering any physical injuries.

His identity was established after R.C.M.P. requested radio stations to broadcast his identity.

NO PROGRESS MADE IN STRIKE PARLEY

Carpenters, Contractors Fail to Reach
Agreement; Second Meeting Likely

Negotiators for Victoria carpenters and contractors involved in the nine-week-old strike met this morning for the first time since late March and made no progress.

After a one and one-half hour session in the office of the Labor Relations Board the parties termed the negotiation "friendly" and it was felt another meeting would be called before the end of the week. Wages are in dispute.

Today's parley was arranged by the Labor Board, whose members felt it was time the two quarrelling factions met around a table to talk settlement.

The last time the two parties were together was in March when they went before a conciliation board to present their arguments.

At today's session, which began at 10, there were 11 representatives of the Victoria Building Industries' Exchange in attendance and five representatives of the Victoria local of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners.

Labor Relations Board chairman D'Arcy Baldwin and the two Victoria board members sat in on the session.

The union's attitude is that it cannot come lower than the $2.10 rate which is now in effect. Island and which has been offered striking Vancouver carpenters. The exchange's view is that business here is falling off and the most contractors could pay for carpenters' services is $1.90 an hour.

The rate of pay when the strike began was $1.75. In Vancouver, meetings have been scheduled for carpenters and painters tonight to decide whether they will call an end to their long construction tie-up.

Engineers Race Time
As New Gulfs Feared

LYNMOUTH, Eng., Aug. 18 (AP)—Army engineers blasted and bulldozed their way today through the debris of a flood believed to have drowned 39 persons in England's southwest resort coast.

Nine bodies have been recovered from among the rain-washed boulders and house wreckage along a 15-mile stretch of the Devon coast. Still missing and presumed dead were 30 more villagers and vacationers.

The Press Association had said earlier that the known dead had reached 22 with 12 others missing. Later information caused a revision of the figures.

This picturesque vacation town was almost washed into the sea by water which poured over the banks of the Lyn River at the height of the flood early Saturday morning.

Threatening gales and more rain were forecast for later today.

First estimates put the property damage in the whole flooded area at more than $7,000,000.

The catastrophe's full force fell on Lynmouth, a picture postcard little holiday resort which turned into a boulder-strewn shambles when cloudbursts Friday changed the placid little Lyn into a torrent boiling through the main street.

The flood damage here alone was estimated at more than $2,000,000. Twenty houses and 22 hotels disappeared. At least 40 other houses were damaged.

Police sealed off the town to prevent looting. More than 2,500 villagers and holidaymakers were in an attempt to put the Lyn back into its course. More rains might spread the waters over a still larger area.

Five vacationists, including three boy scouts, were listed among the dead and nine vacationists among those missing and presumed dead.

Survivors from Lynmouth gave a graphic description of the terror that suddenly burst on them in the night.

Comedian Al Rale, appearing at the local music hall, told how the audience hurried out as the noise of the flood drowned a soprano's voice.

"I saw a chain of women walking hand in hand towards their hotel," Rale said. "Then the sidewalk disappeared, and the girls on the end of the chain was swept out to sea."
